Landfill Fight Is Continuing Schwenk, Griggs Exchange Charges

Mayor John J. Schwenk, in replying today to comment by Attorney Richard W. Griggs, counsel for the Fifth Ward Community Association, dealing with a downtown refuse disposal project, again advised that Griggs resort to "legal action in the courts," rather than "trial by Press."

Griggs, in a statement released after Thursday night's meeting of the association at St. Mary's Hall, North Street, again contends that the mayor had not received Common Council authorization to sign contracts for acquisition of land in the Kingston Point area.

Trial by Press: Schwenk
Mayor Schwenk said: "I have been trying to figure out why Mr. Griggs persists on 'trial by press' when, as an attorney, he should know that his only recourse to halt the sanitary landfill operation in the Fifth Ward is through legal action in the courts."

"Perhaps," the mayor continued, "he prefers to fight his legal battle, where there are no legal rules other than the laws of slander, where his statements need not be pertinent to the issue, where objections to his tactics need not be sustained, and where the decision would not come from an impartial authority based on the law, which protects the rights of all citizens."

Refers to Authority
Griggs noted that on Wednesday he had said the mayor had "never received any authority from the Kingston Common Council authorizing him to sign any contracts for the acquisition of lands, at or near Kingston Point, or to submit any application to the Conservation Department for state aid in the purchase of any private lands."

On the following day, he said, "the mayor denied that this was so, and indicated that his honesty was being questioned. The mayor's honesty has never been questioned, but his awareness of the facts certainly needs to be improved."

Griggs said he conferred Aug. 11 in Albany with Robert Middlebrooks, assistant director of state parks, and was told that the mayor's application for state assistance "was being held up, until such time as he obtained local legislative authority, such as the Common Council. No such authority has been sought or obtained since Aug. 11."

After the mayor's Thursday statement, Griggs said, he spoke with a Mr. Biggane, administrative officer, Division of Parks, and was informed that it was "still awaiting the required legislative authority" before approval of "any application for state assistance in the purchase of private property at or near Kingston Point."

Cities Figures
Requested from the state for purchase of lands, Griggs said, was $86,350, "of which 25 per cent, of $21,587.50, must be paid to the state within six months of the time the money is given the city for land acquisition costs. The Housing and Home (Continued on Page 10, Col. 6)

Drought Farmers Ask Cent Raise On Qt. of Milk

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Drought-plagued dairy farmers in the New York-New Jersey milkshed are pressing for an increase of about a cent a quart in the farm price of milk to offset extra costs of feeding their herds.

At a meeting here Thursday, more than 100 representatives of five major dairy cooperatives agreed to send a price-increase petition to U.S. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

The cooperative leaders, who said they spoke for more than 31,000 dairy farmers, said they would welcome a hearing on the petition in order to place on the record the nature and extent of crop damage.

Set by Formula
They requested an emergency increase of about a cent a quart in the price they receive for class 1-a fluid milk. The price is set each month by a formula that takes into account total production and demand for the product.

As an alternative, they suggested that Freeman could provide more money for milk producers by suspending the supply-demand factor in the formula for the months of September through April. He has authority to do so.

By suspending the factor, they said, dairymen would receive about 38 cents a hundredweight (Continued on Page 10, Col. 2)

Three men were appointed provisional patrolmen by the police board Thursday night and the fire board, meeting in special session, approved permanent appointment of three men who have been serving provisionally.

RFK Shifts His N.Y. Timetable, To Quit Sept. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has a timetable all set in his fight for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate from New York, informed sources said today.

The sources said it awaits only an expected endorsement of Kennedy by Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, the state's top Democrat.

To Resign as Delegate
Kennedy's timetable, the sources said, would delay his resignation as attorney general until Sept. 1, date of the New York Democratic convention which will nominate the candidate to oppose Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating.

The attorney general would first resign as a Massachusetts delegate to the Democratic National Convention, which opens Monday in Atlantic City, N.J. He would be replaced by the wife of his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Kennedy, in his new role as a New Yorker, would attend only the last day of the national convention, in time for a program in honor of his late brother, President John F. Kennedy, and a quiet party in memory of Kennedy's successful drive for the presidential nomination four years ago.

Has Enough Support
Kennedy has county leader support from more than enough counties to give him the nomination at the New York convention.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam, Kennedy's chief opponent, was still fighting to block the attorney general.

Stratton has promised a court test of Kennedy's eligibility as a non-resident if he can't stop him at the convention. Kennedy backers say their man has only to establish residence here by election day to qualify.

Wagner Returns
The intra-party fighting was no doubt a factor in Wagner's delay in approving Kennedy's entry into New York politics. The mayor returned Thursday from a flying trip to the mid-west with a stopover in Washington where he saw both President Johnson and Kennedy.

Keating announced Tuesday that he would seek a second term, running independently of the national Republican ticket headed by Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Clare Boothe Luce, former congresswoman from Connecticut and former ambassador to Italy, was reported to be still considering seeking the Senate seat as the Conservative Party candidate.

The police board, which several years ago had discontinued appointments to the police department on a provisional basis, explained, it was now being done in an attempt to overcome the time lag involved in the processing of civil service examinations for police officers.

New Special Police
Approved for provisional appointment as patrolmen were: Douglas Arthur Longto, 411 Hasbrouck Avenue; Patrick Joseph Colbert, 58 St. James Street, and Donald Louis Playford, 80 Prospect Street. Appointment of Longto and Colbert is to become effective Aug. 29, and that of Playford is due Sept. 12.

Mayor John J. Schwenk, in announcing the board's decision, said the three men have agreed to take the civil service examination on Aug. 29, have passed an equivalent physical examination, and have been further screened as to their scholastic ability to pass the written civil service examination.

Permanent Firemen
Named for permanent appointment to the fire department after submission of the present civil service eligibility list to the fire board were: John H. Dwyer, of 83 Highland Avenue, and Gerard R. Diers, of 7 Center Road, Mt. Marion, who each scored 86.5 per cent on the civil service test, and Gerard J. Kelder Jr., of 21 Presidents Place, who scored 74.5. The other man on the list is Theron W. Snyder, of 92 Emerick Street, whose rating is 79 per cent.

The civil service list for appointments to the fire department became effective Aug. 5, but shortly before receiving it, the fire board announced provisional appointment of the three men. The list was compiled from a Feb. 29 examination.

Mayor Schwenk, in explaining appointments to the police department, said all are provisional in the sense that they are conditional to the appointees qualifying through civil service.

Confident About Men
However, he noted, the board "is relatively confident that these three men have the physical (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)"

Four Yanks Killed, Reds Ambush Viets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Four Americans were killed and South Vietnamese troops suffered heavy losses in a Communist ambush Thursday night while the Saigon government prepared for more hostile student demonstrations.

U. S. Toll Now 185
The Americans, military advisers to a South Vietnamese infantry unit, were killed in Kien Hoa Province south of Saigon while the outfit was searching for Viet Cong guerrillas who overran the military outpost of Phu Tuc Thursday.

Guerrillas killed 7 of the 36 Vietnamese defending the Phu Tuc post and wounded 15.

The bodies of the four Americans — whose names were not immediately released — were recovered today by a relief column.

The total number of Americans killed in action in South Viet Nam stands at 185.

During the day, Buddhist students staged large rallies in the key cities of Saigon and Hue commemorating the first anniversary of bloody raids on Buddhist pagodas by the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Security Bolstered
Police, fearing an increase of anti-government feeling, stood by passively. But authorities in both Saigon and Hue braced for more rallies by strengthening security.

Children and pregnant women were among 1,000 villagers who stalled a government troop column for hours in the coastal area below Tuy Hoa, 230 miles northeast of Saigon. Demonstrators threw themselves in front and back of the column's vehicles.

Military sources said they believed 85 per cent of the demonstrators were sympathetic to the Viet Cong. The sources said they feared the Communists might use similar tactics in the future.

Nothing Definite Is Report About Theater at Plaza

A spokesman for the Kingston Plaza Inc., said today that there is nothing definite at this time about reports that a theater will be built at the Kingston Shopping Plaza. He said eight theater groups had indicated interest in the proposal, but their terms were not accepted.

The corporation spokesman said the State of New York National Bank definitely will open a branch at the plaza and according to present plans the opening will take place early in October.

The store between the new banking establishment and the Grand Union Market is expected to open about Sept. 1. That store will be occupied by the Norge Laundry and Cleaning Village, it was reported.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Advance elements of New York State's big delegation, with Mayor Robert F. Wagner in the vanguard, are converging on this seaside resort for next week's Democratic National Convention.

Wagner, widely regarded as the state's top Democrat, was invited to address the Platform and Resolutions Committee today in his capacity as head of the party's nationalities division.

McKeon Due Tomorrow
State Chairman William H. McKeon planned to move onto the convention scene tomorrow, via a 25-passenger helicopter from New York City's Wall Street heliport. Political associates and staff members will join him in the air lift.

Most members of the New York delegation are traveling by automobile, bus or train.

With 405 delegates and alternates, the New York contingent will be the largest at the convention, which is set to give a noisy endorsement to President Johnson to run for a full term.

Among New Yorkers arriving Thursday were City Councilman Robert A. Low and Prof. Alan K. Campbell of Syracuse University, co-chairman of a subcommittee that drew up New York recommendations for the national platform.

Recommendations
Some of the recommendations included:

A demand that discrimination based upon race, creed, national origin, age or sex be totally rejected in the platform.

They suggested a commission to study the possibility of general grants-in-aid to states and localities by the federal government, as an improvement on the present system of aid for specific programs. They said the proposals would help cope with differing needs in differing areas.

The New York recommendations included one that attention be given to tying social security benefits to the cost of living index. It said this had been successful in management-labor contracts.

Great Lakes Region Has Million-Dollar Thirst

CHICAGO (AP) — The prosperous Great Lakes region, playland and workland of the Midwest, is suffering a multi-million-dollar thirst. Water levels are at record lows.

The lack of water, attributed to subnormal precipitation since 1960, has boosted the cost of shipping, reduced property values, and killed off wildlife and fishing.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers recently added to the gloom when it predicted that water levels would continue to drop at least until 1965. The engineers said only Lake Superior will not be drastically affected.

Water levels dipped sharply this summer. Lakes Michigan and Huron now have their lowest levels since records were started in 1860, and Lakes Ontario and Erie levels are close to 30-year-old records.

The problems caused by lower water levels are painfully obvious to tourists and lakeside dwellers. Beaches are longer — often it's a challenge to wade into water deep enough for swimming — and docks and piers are exposed to rot and decay.

Receding shore lines have ruined thousands of acres that once were natural habitats for wildfowl. Game officials say the whole wildlife chain has been disrupted in the Great Lakes.

Higher rates have lost some shipping business.

Corn from Iowa and Illinois no longer is shipped on the Great Lakes. Now it is diverted to New Orleans and other Gulf of Mexico ports.

Albert J. Meserow of Chicago, head of the Great Lakes Commission, estimates the loss to shipping and recreational interests this year will total about $100 million.

Advanced Planning Key to Enforcement Of CR in State, Aldrich Tells Kiwanis

The Civil Rights problem, their effect upon public safety, and the plans of New York State for coping with these problems were explained to the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday by Alexander Aldrich, secretary to Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

"Your state looks ahead and plans for what we hope will not happen," said Aldrich in emphasizing the fine Civil Rights Laws of New York State and the plans to enforce these laws. He pointed out, however, that there is "much to be done in the area of race relations which are not governmental at all but are a personal, organizational and local problem of working together."

Aldrich referred to the recent Civil Rights riot in the City of Rochester to illustrate his talk, pointing out that the state government acted in the interests of public safety with plans that had been formulated months prior to the incident.

"Serious state problems can be solved by planning ahead," said Aldrich. In support of this, he related the planning that began in June of 1963 to coordinate activities of the state government in Civil Rights enforcement. This planning was emphasized as a necessity in July of 1963 by an incident at the Medical Center in Brooklyn, and further underlined in November with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

In January of 1964, said Aldrich, a manual was issued concerning means of coping with the disasters as applied by the State Executive Chamber. This was invaluable in treating the recent Rochester riot in which Aldrich was the liaison between Gov. Rockefeller and the law enforcement agencies.

The riot in Rochester "got out of hand" as far as the local police were concerned about three o'clock in the morning, and the sheriff's forces were then called in. This riot involved from 800 to a 1,000 people when it started, according to the governor's secretary. He then pointed out that the state law will not permit the use of State Police within a city unless a legal request is received from the mayor of the city and the law enforcement group of that community. Aldrich also indicated that in such cases the chain of command in enforcement in a city is the local police, the sheriff's department, the State Police, the National Guard, and then Federal Troops — in that order.

Truce Threatened By New Outbreaks

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Renewed fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots, and a government charge that Turkish planes flew over Cyprus, threatened today to shatter the shaky truce on this Mediterranean island.

No Casualties
No casualties were reported in the fighting Thursday near Ktima in southwest Cyprus. Shooting between the communal factions lasted about an hour, a U.N. spokesman said.

Turkish reconnaissance flights were reported in the Kokkina-Mansoura area where two weeks ago Greek Cypriot advances on Turkish positions triggered retaliatory air strikes by Turkey.

A U.N.-sponsored cease-fire has been in effect since the Turkish assaults. Turkey had agreed to suspend its reconnaissance missions but warned that new attacks by Greek Cypriots would lead to their resumption. If the flights over the northwest coast were made by Turkish airplanes, as the Greek Cypriot government charges, they would be the first in 10 days.

Visit Causes Speculation
The sudden visit here of Greek Defense Minister Petros Garoufalas roused speculation. He said Thursday night after arriving from Athens that he would speak with President Makarios and inspect Greece's 950-man army contingent, based on the island under the 1960 treaty which granted independence to Cyprus.

There were rumors, however, that Garoufalas had come to persuade Makarios to reject an offer of Soviet military aid, pledged in case of a Turkish attack. A Greek Cypriot delegation was expected to depart soon for Moscow for talks on the subject.

They requested an emergency increase of about a cent a quart in the price they receive for class 1-a fluid milk. The price is set each month by a formula that takes into account total production and demand for the product.

of public safety with plans that had been formulated months prior to the incident.

"Serious state problems can be solved by planning ahead," said Aldrich. In support of this, he related the planning that began in June of 1963 to coordinate activities of the state government in Civil Rights enforcement. This planning was emphasized as a necessity in July of 1963 by an incident at the Medical Center in Brooklyn, and further underlined in November with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

In January of 1964, said Aldrich, a manual was issued concerning means of coping with disasters as applied by the State Executive Chamber. This was invaluable in treating the recent Rochester riot in which Aldrich was the liaison between Gov. Rockefeller and the law enforcement agencies.

of hand" as far as the local police were concerned about three o'clock in the morning, and the sheriff's forces were then called in. This riot involved from 800 to 1,000 people when it started, according to the governor's secretary. He then pointed out that the state law will not permit the use of State Police within a city unless a legal request is received from the mayor of the city and the law enforcement group of that community. Aldrich also indicated that in such cases the chain of command in enforcement in a city is the local police, the sheriff's department, the State Police, the National Guard, and then Federal Troops — in that order.

Space Watchers Put Brooklyn Gal Into Orbit

NEW YORK (AP) — Satellite buffs have got Josephine Schlosser of Brooklyn in orbit with their constant telephone calls for tracking data.

She has no tracking data. What she does have — besides a jangling telephone and jangled nerves — is the same telephone number as one for a dial-a-satellite service at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

And if you dial the Washington number in New York City without first dialing the Washington area code, you get the Schlosser residence.

The first of some 300 telephone calls came Tuesday night.

"Starting from 8:30 people began calling to ask about space," Mrs. Schlosser said Thursday. "When I explained that this is Brooklyn, they became annoyed. Some of them used terrible language."

The calls apparently were prompted by newspaper stories here that told of the dial-a-satellite service and gave the Washington telephone number.

The calls continued to pour into the Schlosser home at all hours Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Schlosser said the New York Telephone Co. suggested she take the receiver off the hook.

"But I can't do that," she said. "I might be getting some calls from my sister-in-law or somebody else in the family, or my husband might get some business calls."

Peking Influence Growing in Congo

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red Chinese influence is growing in the former French Congo. Peking agents seem intent on transforming it into a base for revolution in central and west Africa.

Brazzaville, capital of the Congo Republic, provides headquarters for what seems to be a mastermind committee of the rebellion in the other Congo, to the east, against the Leopoldville government.

Red China may see bright prospects for the spread of revolutionary violence from seeds planted in the two Congos. Portuguese Angola to the south is a prime target.

Rebels holding a large chunk of the eastern area of Leopoldville Congo, including the city of Stanleyville, refer to their forces as "The People's Liberation Army." The Red Chinese apply the same name to their army.

Evidently, the anti-Leopoldville uprising gets significant help from Brazzaville, an important transport hub for all central Africa. It is headquarters for an organization called the National Council for Liberation of the Congo. This group issues communiques on the progress of rebellion in the neighboring Congo, and describes itself as devoted to "Lumumbism."

Patrice Lumumba, a pro-Communist premier of Leopoldville, was murdered in 1961. Premier Moise Tshombe in Leopoldville complained this week of "interference from certain foreign countries in the service of Communist China, such as Brazzaville Congo and Burundi." Burundi is to the east of Leopoldville Congo.

Capital News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is preparing to send two Mariner spacecraft toward Mars next November or December.

If successful, the 570-pound spacecraft would pass within 10,000 miles of Mars next July or a few weeks thereafter and send back 150 million miles to earth the first television pictures from such a vast distance.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration hopes the films and other data will determine whether the planet harbors any forms of life.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration reportedly is considering asking Congress next year to abolish all excise taxes paid at the retail counter. In addition, it was learned Thursday, the tentative plans call for abolition of taxes on local telephone service and reduction or elimination of some taxes which one government official described as "increasing the cost of doing business."

The estimated reduction in revenue would run $2 billion to $3 billion. Excise taxes, most of which amount to a federal sales tax, bring in $14.5 billion a year. The extent of the reductions would depend on how well the economy is performing the next year and how much revenue is being produced.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law Thursday a bill that gives the Securities and Exchange Commission new authority to supervise over-the-counter trading in stocks.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another of President Johnson's "must" pieces of legislation has received final congressional approval — the wilderness bill to set up a 9.2 million acre national preservation system on federal forest lands.

The amendment measure approved Thursday by both the House and the Senate permits some mining in the wilderness area.

Meeting Monday On Dump Ruling, Plattekill Town

A public hearing will be held Monday 8 p. m. in the Hasbrouck Hall, Modena, on a proposed change to the Town of Plattekill disposal ordinance.

The amendment calls for the charging of a $50 permit fee per year to all commercial garbage collectors using the Plattekill town dump.

Town Supervisor Joseph Martorana has stated that the entire proposed amendment will be read and discussed at the Modena meeting.

Another proposed change would prohibit commercial collectors from bringing in waste materials from outside of the Town of Plattekill to be deposited in the town dump. In addition, the dumping area would be open Monday through Saturday from 9 a. m. to 12 noon. A fence would also be installed in front of the dump along the highway and anyone throwing garbage over or alongside the fence would be subject to a $50 fine.

Library Reports Recent Additions

Onondaga County in the late 19th century is described in a new book by Anne Sneller, called A Vanishing World, recently obtained by the Kingston City Library. The book is presently drawing national interest.

The author, who is 80 years old, relates the world of old rural America, a peaceful world of family farms, quiet country roads and small towns.

The library has also acquired a number of other new titles. Your Guide to the Weather, by George Cantzlaar, discusses something everyone talks about, but few people know much about.

Editing the Small Magazine, by Rowena Ferguson, is a complete guide for the beginning editor. There are approximately 12,000 magazines in the U. S., and 95 per cent of them are of small circulation. These magazines and their editorial problems are the subject of this guide.

The World of Mathematics, by James Newman, is a four volume library of the literature of mathematics from A-h-mose the scribe to Albert Einstein.

Guide to the Literature of Mathematic and Physics, by Nathan Parke, also includes a section on engineering science. It is possibly one of the best guides available on the best books on engineering, physics and mathematics. It has a long section on literature searching for the scientist.

Effective Oral Interpretation for Religious Leaders, by Harold Brack, is a guide for ordained ministers and lay religious leaders to the art of delivering sermons and prayers.

The Reader's Adviser, by Hester Hoffman, is an annotated guide to the best books in print in literature, biography, dictionaries, encyclopedias, Bibles, classics, drama, poetry, fiction, science, philosophy, travel and history.

Aerospace Facts and Figures, 1964, is a compilation of statistics, facts and miscellaneous data found in no other publication, on every aspect of aerospace programs and contractors.

Gideon's Trumpet, by Anthony Lewis, is a story of history in the making. One day Clarence Gideon, an obscure convict, sat down and wrote a letter to the Supreme Court. He had been denied a lawyer at the time of his trial, and he felt he was denied his rights. The Supreme Court agreed, and it changed the course of modern criminal procedure.

These and many more new books are now available at the library. Library hours are 10:30 to 8:30, Monday through Friday, and 1 to 5, Saturday.

West Point Down For $19,778,000 In Improvements

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson had on his desk today a $1.5-billion military construction bill that included $21.4 million for projects in New York State.

The measure, approved by Congress Thursday and sent to the White House, represents a compromise between House and Senate proposals.

The only change in New York projects was the appropriation for work at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. The House had approved $19,428,000 and the Senate increased it to $20,228,000. The final figure was $19,778,000.

Other New York projects and the amounts: Army — Pictorial center $548,000; Fort Hamilton $118,000; Watervliet Arsenal $77,000. Navy — Special Devices Center at Mitchel Field $550,000. Air Force — Plattsburgh Air Force Base $297,000; Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, $40,000.

Clergy Can Suggest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Pastors who are trained in marital counseling enjoy a unique advantage, says Dr. Clair Warden, pastor of King Avenue Methodist Church. Such a pastor "not only can study the problem but also can suggest some immediate release such as joining the choir or a church study group," Warden says.

Dear Abby . . .

It's Understandable!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday I attended my cousins wedding. It was a beautiful wedding, held in our church. During the ceremony the minister told the bride and groom he hoped that they would keep up their spiritual connections with the church. Then he started bawling out all the guests because they came to church only when they wanted some service performed, such as a marriage or a christening, but that they never bothered about Sunday morning services. It made the guests very uncomfortable. Do you think this was the proper time for the minister to have brought up that subject? What was the matter with him anyway?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: He was probably captivated by his captive audience. Forgive him, for it shall be said that even a minister becomes sorely wearied of a depleted flock.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who divorced his first wife on the grounds of adultery. All this took place before I met him. For some reason, which I have never been able to figure out, my husband's sister has kept up her friendship with my husband's "X".

What really irritates me is having my sister-in-law bring up my husband's "X" in every conversation. I've never met the "X" and have no interest in her or her activities. How can I put a stop to it without creating a family fight?

NO FIGHTER

DEAR NO: Tell your sister-in-law you want no more news of your husband's "X." If she persists, X her off your list.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if I am "square" because I resent having a waitress who is supposed to be serving us, lean on my husband's shoulder, paw him, and sit down and join us while we are dining out. I flatly refused to dine at that restaurant again. I created a crisis, but I felt justified. My husband called me a "narrow-minded snob" because I refuse to put up with that sort of monkey business. Am I wrong to feel that my husband is not on the bargain counter and I don't want pawed-over merchandise?

N. M. S.

DEAR N. M. S.: Don't blame the waitress. No man has to accept everything that is dished out to him. Your husband isn't helpless. If he didn't want to be leaned on, pawed over and joined, he could discourage it. I don't know where you "dine," but I have yet to see a waitress take the liberties you describe.

DEAR ABBY: How does a girl 14 years of age, who weighs about 30 pounds too much, go about getting the weight off?

NEEDS IT

DEAR NEEDS: The same way a girl (or boy) of ANY age goes about it. First, she sees a doctor. Then she does exactly what the doctor tells her to do.

Will Open Bids Next Friday for Clay Hill Pipe

Bids for 2,200 feet of eight-inch asbestos pipe to be installed in the Clay Hill Road area, Kerhonkson, in connection with the improvement of the town's water district, will be opened Friday, Aug. 28.

The project recently was approved by the Town of Wawarsing Board. The replacement of the pipe will cost approximately $12,500, according to Aaron Horowitz, district engineer. The cost of the work will be covered by serial bonds.

The Town Board voted at the August meeting to authorize the appointment of a Town Planning Board, after Deyo Johnson, of the County Planning Board, urged such action. Many towns already have created a local planning group.

Final Park Dance Set for Tonight

The final Friday night rock and roll dance for the summer season will be held at Forsyth Park tonight from 8 until 11.

Music for this final dance will again be provided by the same group that has been playing all Friday night dances, The Runaways. As per usual rock and roll tunes will be the feature of the evening.

These Friday night dances have proven to be very popular, so much so that plans are underway to find a site to continue the dances in the fall of the year.

The Recreation Dept. has extended thanks to local teenagers, the majority of whom have acted very gentlemanlike and ladylike at all dances held to date. There have been minor incidents which are expected by the non-conformists who must demonstrate in order to gain attention but all in all the dances have proved to be very popular and 99 per cent of the teenagers have appreciated the effort made on their behalf and have acted accordingly.

This dance will not be the final one of the season but will be the final Friday night dance. Plans are being made by the Recreation Department and Local 215 of A. F. of M. to hold a Back-to-School dance featuring two Rock and Roll Groups, The Playboys and Dave and the Strollers. The dance is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 26 with the site yet to be determined.

Grant to Senecas Not Generous: Scott

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Johnson for final approval. "I do not think we members of the Senate should be congratulating ourselves for a generous settlement," Scott said.

He pointed out that the Interior Department had recommended a $29-million rehabilitation fund for the Indians. "We have fallen far short of that mark," he asserted.

The bill earmarks $12,128,917 for rehabilitation and the remainder for direct and indirect damages.

Dear Abby . . .

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday I attended my cousins wedding. It was a beautiful wedding, held in our church. During the ceremony the minister told the bride and groom he hoped that they would keep up their spiritual connections with the church. Then he started bawling out all the guests because they came to church only when they wanted some service performed, such as a marriage or a christening, but that they never bothered about Sunday morning services. It made the guests very uncomfortable. Do you think this was the proper time for the minister to have brought up that subject? What was the matter with him anyway?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: He was probably captivated by his captive audience. Forgive him, for it shall be said that even a minister becomes sorely wearied of a depleted flock.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who divorced his first wife on the grounds of adultery. All this took place before I met him. For some reason, which I have never been able to figure out, my husband's sister has kept up her friendship with my husband's "X."

What really irritates me is having my sister-in-law bring up my husband's "X" in every conversation. I've never met the "X" and have no interest in her or her activities. How can I put a stop to it without creating a family fight?

NO FIGHTER

DEAR NO: Tell your sister-in-law you want no more news of your husband's "X." If she persists, X her off your list.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if I am "square" because I resent having a waitress who is supposed to be serving us, lean on my husband's shoulder, paw him, and sit down and join us while we are dining out. I flatly refused to dine at that restaurant again. I created a crisis, but I felt justified. My husband called me a "narrow-minded snob" because I refuse to put up with that sort of monkey business. Am I wrong to feel that my husband is not on the bargain counter and I don't want pawed-over merchandise?

N. M. S.

DEAR N. M. S.: Don't blame the waitress. No man has to accept everything that is dished out to him. Your husband isn't helpless. If he didn't want to be leaned on, pawed over and joined, he could discourage it. I don't know where you "dine," but I have yet to see a waitress take the liberties you describe.

DEAR ABBY: How does a girl 14 years of age, who weighs about 30 pounds too much, go about getting the weight off?

NEEDS IT

DEAR NEEDS: The same way a girl (or boy) of ANY age goes about it. First, she sees a doctor. Then she does exactly what the doctor tells her to do.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Grant to Senecas Not Generous: Scott

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., sees no generosity in the $15,000,573 authorized by Congress to help New York's Seneca Indians adjust to construction of the Allegheny River dam and reservoir.

Scott took direct issue on the point Thursday with Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who referred to the appropriation as "generous" during debate on the legislation earlier in the week.

The bill was sent to President Johnson for final approval.

"I do not think we members of the Senate should be congratulating ourselves for a generous settlement," Scott said.

He pointed out that the Interior Department had recommended a $29-million rehabilitation fund for the Indians.

TO PREVENT FAILURE

Of an estimated 400,000 new businesses established each year in the nation, about 350,000 go under. A principal reason is that too many of those who start them disregard a cardinal precept, the need for prior experience.

William S. Peters of Arizona State University's Bureau of Business Services recently interviewed 435 small business firms in his state. These included owners of groceries, gift shops, laundromats, appliance repair shops, mobile home parks and machine shops. His study showed that only 25 to 35 per cent had had previous experience in the business they started.

Half the restaurant owners had been employed by restaurants but in no way connected with management. Only six per cent of the electrical appliance shop owners had had managerial experience. Peter's survey convinced him that one cause of failure was inability of the man preparing to start a business to appraise his own fitness for the venture accurately. His suggested remedy can be summarized as follows:

Before taking the fatal step, obtain from a competent adviser an objective appraisal of your qualifications. If he approves you and you decide to buy a business, don't accept the seller's word for anything; even an honest man will not run down a plant he's trying to sell. Get advice from a banker, lawyer or accountant, and above all don't expect to find any business that can be launched without prior experience.

The warning is timely. As automation cuts down the number of available jobs, more of us decide to strike out for ourselves. And too often that's just what we do—strike out.

WEALTH OF THE PAST

In most areas of life, it is impossible to go back to the ways of earlier times. Much as one may long for the slower pace of, say, the late 19th century (even being willing to forego television and other amenities of our day) that slower pace is out of reach. Each generation is essentially trapped in the environment of its time.

Yet despite all this, there are ways of living in the past—or at least enjoying some of its good things—without going back. This is especially true in the arts. Though what has gone before often seems to be forgotten in the rush to absorb everything contemporary, the fact is that the bulk of the treasure was created long before our time. And more than any previous generation, we have access to it.

Anyone who tires of trying to keep up with the spate of new fiction can quit the uneven contest whenever he chooses and go back to works created generations ago. He can put aside the latest best seller and take up "Bleak House," perhaps, or "War and Peace," or whatever else catches his fancy in the storehouse of the novel.

It is the same in the visual arts. The contemporaries can be shunted aside for awhile as one browses—in galleries or, failing that, in art books—among the vast heritage of painting and sculpture. Music, too: records enable us to listen almost endlessly, if we wish, to the music of our times.

One can always come back to our day—to abstract painting and sculpture, to experimental fiction and atonal music. These have their virtues. But now and then it is pleasant to seek refreshment among the arts of the past.

PEACEFUL SPACE

By sending copies of the best Ranger moon photographs to the leaders of almost every nation on earth, President Johnson achieves several worthwhile things. At the very least, this gesture dramatically symbolizes our country's intention and practice of sharing with others the fruits of scientific research in space. This is in emphatic contrast to the niggardly Soviet release of space data.

The photographs also will underscore the extent to which the U.S. space program has

THE WOMEN MAY YET SAVE CHILE

Slowly, the idea that a victory for the Left in the coming presidential election of September 4 would be a catastrophe is undermining neutralist attitudes in Chile. The realization that the Popular Action Front's Communist-backed candidate Salvador Allende might try to carry out his promise to "make a revolution in Chile exactly as they made one in Cuba" surely had something to do with President Jorge Alessandri's belated decision to follow fifteen other Latin American states in breaking relations with Havana. Alessandri hasn't said so, but it could be that he doesn't want to be the last Chilean president to go out of office legally.

The interesting thing about the shift in Chile is that women have taken the lead in forcing it. Normally standoffish about politics, the Chilean women have been registering in large numbers to vote on September 4. "This can mean only one thing," says a former State Department man who has specialized in Latin countries. "In Chile they say that most ardent Catholics are the women, and the children who are still under 6. The fact that the women are going to vote means that they will support Eduardo Frei, the Christian Democratic candidate for President. This could insure Allende's defeat."

The sudden politicalization of Chilean women is due to the example of Brazil, where mass demonstrations of womenfolk in Sao Paulo and Belo Horizonte fired up the men to finish off the pro-Communist government of "Jango" Goulart. Ever since the Brazilian women nipped an incipient Communist takeover, the massive evidence of attempted Castroite subversion in Brazil has been pouring into Chile. And Salvador Allende, who once hoped to ride to easy victory by promising to grab the copper properties owned by those Yankee "monopolists," the Anaconda and Kennecott companies, is now being asked uncomfortable questions about his connections with the Castroite Latin American Politburo that meets in Havana.

The Chilean decision to go along with the Organization of American States' majority in breaking with Havana puts Allende in a peculiar campaign spot. To keep his franchise with the Communists, he must promise that he will take positive action to overrule the action of the present Alessandri regime if he is elected. In effect, he is asking the Chileans to break not only with the "Yankee copper imperialists" but with practically the whole Latin America. This, to say the least, is an uncomfortable choice.

The benefits to the anti-Communist cause deriving from the Chilean break with Castro can be far-reaching all over the hemisphere if they can be maintained. Cuba has been trading its sugar to Chile for the black beans and garbanzos, of chick peas, that figure so prominently in the Cuban diet. The suspension of this trade will make Castro's population hungrier than ever. With Mexico still refusing to accept the general OAS ostracism of Cuba, Castroite agents can still move from Havana into Central America by way of Mexico City. But the Chilean action will serve to dry up Castroite penetration of Bolivia, a country which along with Mexico and Uruguay still refuses to back the OAS decision. Bolivia is landlocked and her access to the outer world is controlled by Brazil, Paraguay, Argentina, Peru, and Chile. The Chilean decision to go along with the other nations that surround Bolivia means that Castroite plotters can no longer move from Africa, to the Bolivian highlands. The Communist apparatus inside Bolivia may well be crippled by its pending total isolation from the outer world.

If the Chilean women break the back of the Communist threat in Chile next month, it will be a plume in the cap of Lyndon Johnson's coordinator for Latin American affairs, Thomas Mann. It wasn't Mann's idea to send the women of Brazil into the streets to demonstrate, or to get the women of Chile to register for voting. But Mann's refusal to temporize with Latin American Communism certainly helped to nerve Brazilians and Chileans, including their womenfolk, up to the task of fighting Castroism. Johnson is getting the Latin American breaks as Kennedy never got them. And if Allende is beaten in Chile on September 4, it can only help Johnson in November. Pap Test May Also Detect Cancer of Throat, Stomach

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I recently read that the Pap test could be used to detect cancer of the mouth. Would this apply to cancer of the throat also?

A—Since the Papanicolaou or Pap test consists of a microscopic examination of a smear or discharge for isolated cancer cells, it can be applied to several locations including sputum from the lungs or bronchial tubes, washing from the stomach and smears from the throat. Usually the throat would have to be sprayed with a local anesthetic first so the swabbing could be done without causing gagging.

Q—Several months ago a tumor was removed from my leg. My doctor said it was a malignant melanoma. Is this a form of skin cancer and will it return?

A—Yes, this is a type of skin cancer. For this reason a wide area around the lesion should be removed at operation. In addition to this and following the operation, phenylalanine mustard or a related product should be injected into the affected area. When this has been done many victims of this otherwise fatal disease have been cured and have had no return of the melanoma.

Q—What causes pectus or small pinhead dots under the skin?

A—I assume you are referring to petechiae or pinpoint hemorrhages in the skin. One of the commonest causes is insect bites of various kinds. These are usually accompanied by itching. Petechiae are also seen in persons who have purpura and they are commonly associated with a great variety of acute infections. A few scattered petechiae may be seen in persons who are over 40 and who are in good health. This type is of no significance.

Q—About 10 years ago I had a detached retina and completely lost the sight of my right eye. One year ago while pulling hard on a large wrench I had a vitreous hemorrhage in my good eye which left me with only 50 per cent vision in that eye. Could straining have caused these injuries?

A—Extreme exertion might cause a hemorrhage into the vitreous humor (gelatinous portion) of the eyeball but other causes would have to be considered. Straining would not cause the retinal detachment. In most cases this occurs spontaneously although this and the vitreous hemorrhage may be caused by a severe blow on the head.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

now taken the lead. The propaganda value of this will be considerable.

Most important, President Johnson has chosen this occasion to restate this country's position that the community of nations should keep "the peaceful realms of space off limits to the designs of aggressors..." The importance of that, as man enters the space age, cannot be over-emphasized.

It Would Seem the Judges Are Unanimous

Washington News

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 19 (NEA)—President Lyndon B. Johnson may decide that to choose Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota as his running mate over Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the senior Minnesotan, is to dare too many political minefields.

The obvious peril spot, of course, is Humphrey's overriding popularity among most Democratic party leaders.

Yet this alone is not sufficiently persuasive of danger. Or, generally, these leaders are saying, first, that the President should have the man he wants and, second, that they prefer Hubert.

All indications taken from first-hand talks with top Democrats suggest party leaders would not wage a floor fight to get Humphrey, and that, in any event, he would not allow it.

This does not mean Humphrey's popularity can be shrugged off. Aside from his general party standing, he has many dedicated, longtime allies. And in his own Minnesota, party people overwhelmingly prefer him to McCarthy.

Having already given the knock to Attorney General Robert Kennedy and his dedicated backers, the President may wonder about the wisdom of eliminating the only other candidate with a substantial personal following.

WHAT MAY TROUBLE Johnson more, however, is that McCarthy has emerged as the dominant choice of southern Democrats.

To pick McCarthy now will be to open the President to charges of appeasing southerners he has already made happy by dumping Bobby Kennedy and making concessions to get his anti-poverty program through Congress. These concessions include jettisoning the controversial Adam Yarmolinsky as a poverty program official.

There is outspoken skepticism in some high party quarters regarding the South's interest in McCarthy. When a Florida Democrat reported "he was finding McCarthy 'extremely popular' in his state, a key Washington leader snorted disbelief and added:

"He really wants McCarthy for the exactly opposite reason. The fact is, almost nobody knows him."

Johnson may wonder just how far he may safely go down the southern trail without alienating northern Democrats in some important degree.

HE HAS ANOTHER WORRY in this Humphrey-McCarthy business. An old friend says frankly the President is puzzled as to how much weight to give the religious factor. McCarthy, of course, is a Catholic.

Some weeks ago, the President was sitting around with ten of his key staff people—eight of them Catholics. He polled them on their choice for vice president. To his clear astonishment, the vote was 10-0 for Humphrey.

At least one top aide has told Johnson that many Catholics would resent his choosing a man specifically to appeal to Catholic voters. Others argue, though, that only the more sophisticated Catholics would be annoyed. So Johnson wonders.

CURIOUSLY, ANY PERFECTLY SIMPLE, innocent reason for his preferring McCarthy could be nearly buried in the complex interplay presently at work. Johnson likes McCarthy and they have a nice rapport. The flamboyant Humphrey, on the other hand, might upstage the President, both in the campaign and later. Says an influential Democrat:

"Hubert could crowd him. You know—a million ideas a day."

This same Democrat says the one poll which most has caught the President's eye is that which shows him running best without any running mate at all. So, in this context, he may not be blamed for seeking the man who can do him least harm.

Nevertheless, here there is one last land mine for the President to fear. To choose a vice-presidential candidate for blandness could be to risk taking on the stamp of blandness himself.

And he has a host of helpers who think he should take some risks to get emotional zip into the campaign to offset the fire-eating Goldwater zealots. What- ever else may be said of him, Hubert Horatio Humphrey has that zip.

Quick Quiz

Q—In what cities were the first two inaugurations held?

A—Washington's first inauguration was in New York City, his second in Philadelphia.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Travel is great. Home is greater. It is always nice to go, and nicer to come back. This time, after much debate, we have decided to take the little girls with us. Karen is 11, a tall, skinny, beautiful blonde who eats her own weight every day. Kathleen is nine, a gorgeous flirt, a consummate actress who can kick her sister in the shins and walk away from it limping and crying.

There is a serious question of how much a child gets from travel. In this, I'm a pessimist. Years ago, when my Gayle was 11, I took her to Rome, with all its beauty, and she said: "These creeps can't even make spaghetti."

In Athens, she studied the Acropolis and asked why no one repaired it. At Cairo, she had no interest in the Pyramids, but thought that the camel she rode was "wild."

I like to spend money, but I don't like to waste it. So, when Kelly and I thought about this trip, the question of Karen and Kathleen became a family riddle. We finally decided to take them—not on a sensible basis—but because "we'll worry less if they're with us."

We will take them first to Madrid, and because I believe that everyone should try everything once, they will see a bullfight. From there, the girls will go to Rome. To my way of thinking, this city is so beautiful that the eyes become drunk. The next stop will be Athens, there to see what is left of the first of the modern cultures, and also to buy a Greek doll or two.

After that, a flight across the Mediterranean to Cairo. I might spend an hour explaining why the pyramids were built the Pyramids, and these kids, feminine to the core, will be interested solely in Cleopatra. They may even ask if Elizabeth Taylor was the original.

A few days in the Arab bazaar, and we will fly to the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, there to visit Jerusalem and Bethlehem. The children will walk the road He once walked. They will see Gethsemane and Calvary and the great Hebrew temple, which once had a cluster of solid gold grapes four stories high facing the morning sun.

From there, they will cross into Israel. This will give the children an opportunity to see a young and struggling nation—the kibbutzes, the super-orthodox sects, Haifa, Tel Aviv, and maybe the Negev desert. From there, El Al airlines will fly them, in less than three hours, to Zurich, Switzerland.

In a single morning, they will

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Bobby Kennedy isn't eligible to vote in the November election in New York State, but he wants to be the Democratic candidate for the United States Senate from the Empire State anyway.

This anomaly arises from the fact that Mr. Kennedy set forth in his authorized biography in the Congressional Record that Massachusetts is his legal residence. Nobody can vote in New York State who hasn't been a resident for at least a year. The Constitution, however, specifies only that a Senator must be an "inhabitant" of the state "when elected." This could mean that anybody who has stayed for a few days at a hotel in New York State could run for the Senate from that state.

But the complications that are bound to ensue for the major political parties are not confined to the technical question of residence. There are all sorts of dilemmas, such as the impact of the Kennedy candidacy on the Senatorial race as a whole. Republicans who have been lukewarm about supporting Sen. Keating, because he hasn't spoken out in favor of the Republican Presidential nominee, will have to choose between voting at the convention for Mr. Keating or voting for Mr. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee. Democrats who dislike the invasion of their state by an "outsider" would be confronted with the necessity of either voting for Mr. Kennedy as the Democratic nominee, or supporting the Republican, or not voting at all.

Already there are cries that, if Mr. Kennedy is elected, Massachusetts will have three members of the United States Senate — and New York State only one — whereas the Constitution says that there shall be two Senators from each state. It will be contended in reply, of course, that Mr. Kennedy will not "represent" Massachusetts, but only New York.

The debate over Mr. Kennedy's candidacy is bound to take on a national aspect and have a direct effect on the Johnson-Goldwater race. Mr. Kennedy as Attorney General has been in the forefront of the "civil rights" controversy, and there are lots of people in New York State — in what is usually referred to as the "white backlash" — who believe that the department of justice has been responsible for encouraging many of the demonstrations that now have resulted in violence and in apprehension that this will spread.

The intervention of the Attorney General when prominent demonstrators, like Dr. Martin Luther King, were arrested by local authorities in the South is usually cited as an example of efforts made beyond the obligations of an Attorney General, who is in charge of Federal law enforcement.

There's a chance also that New York State politics will become very much confused, not only in the Republican party but in the Democratic party, as a consequence of the Kennedy candidacy. New York City has often been governed by the bosses of Tammany Hall, and the vote of the big metropolis frequently has been decisive in producing an overwhelming majority for the Democrats to offset the Republican majority in upstate New York. There have been scandals in recent years involving "bossism" and Mayor Wagner has emerged as the leader of a reform group. The mayor has been reluctant to endorse Attorney General Kennedy, because the latter has been able to develop some support among the local bosses who are unfriendly to Mayor Wagner.

All this could mean that, if Attorney General Kennedy is nominated for the United States Senate in the Democratic state convention at the end of this month, there will be plenty of fireworks among the politicians who control the local precincts in the populous areas of the state. The result could be an apathy toward the Johnson ticket. Dissension over the nomination of Attorney General Kennedy is bound to be widespread.

President Johnson, who did not endorse the Attorney General as a prospective nominee for the Senate, also faces criticism from a good many voters in New York State because he declared the Attorney General ineligible for the Vice-Presidential nomination. Mr. Kennedy has a lot of friends in the Empire State, and they have not been made too happy by President Johnson's elimination of the Attorney General as his running mate.

It's too early to tell just how far-reaching these various currents of dissatisfaction will be, but certainly the electoral vote of New York State is not the cinch for the Johnson ticket that it might otherwise have been. Fore Attorney General Kennedy decided to enter the race for the United States Senate.

Politics is a strange game, but it is clear to the eyes of New York State that they may be asked to vote for a man for Senator on the Democratic ticket who is not familiar with the problems of the people in that state. There may be a new campaign ditty, taken from the musical comedy called "The Music Man," in which a chorus of salesmen sing out, "But he doesn't know the territory, he doesn't know the territory."

Of an estimated 400,000 new businesses established each year in the nation, about 350,000 go under. A principal reason is that too many of those who start them disregard a cardinal precept, the need for prior experience.

William S. Peters of Arizona State University's Bureau of Business Services recently interviewed 435 small business firms in his state. These included owners of groceries, gift shops, laundromats, appliance repair shops, mobile home parks and machine shops. His study showed that only 25 to 35 per cent had had previous experience in the business they started.

Half the restaurant owners had been employed by restaurants but in no way connected with management. Only six per cent of the electrical appliance shop owners had had managerial experience. Peter's survey convinced him that one cause of failure was inability of the man preparing to start a business to appraise his own fitness for the venture accurately. His suggested remedy can be summarized as follows:

Before taking the fatal step, obtain from a competent adviser an objective appraisal of your qualifications. If he approves you and you decide to buy a business, don't accept the seller's word for anything; even an honest man will not run down a plant he's trying to sell. Get advice from a banker, lawyer or accountant, and above all don't expect to find any business that can be launched without prior experience.

The warning is timely. As automation cuts down the number of available jobs, more of us decide to strike out for ourselves. And too often that's just what we do—strike out.

WEALTH OF THE PAST

In most areas of life, it is impossible to go back to the ways of earlier times. Much as one may long for the slower pace of, say, the late 19th century (even being willing to forego television and other amenities of our day) that slower pace is out of reach. Each generation is essentially trapped in the environment of its time.

Yet despite all this, there are ways of living in the past—or at least enjoying some of its good things—without going back. This is especially true in the arts. Though what has gone before often seems to be forgotten in the rush to absorb everything contemporary, the fact is that the bulk of the treasure was created long before our time. And more than any previous generation, we have access to it.

Anyone who tires of trying to keep up with the spate of new fiction can quit the uneven contest whenever he chooses and go back to works created generations ago. He can put aside the latest best seller and take up "Bleak House," perhaps, or "War and Peace," or whatever else catches his fancy in the storehouse of the novel.

It is the same in the visual arts. The contemporaries can be shunted aside for awhile as one browses—in galleries or, failing that, in art books—among the vast heritage of painting and sculpture. Music, too: records enable us to listen almost endlessly, if we wish, to the music of our times.

One can always come back to our day—to abstract painting and sculpture, to experimental fiction and atonal music. These have their virtues. But now and then it is pleasant to seek refreshment among the arts of the past.

PEACEFUL SPACE

By sending copies of the best Ranger moon photographs to the leaders of almost every nation on earth, President Johnson achieves several worthwhile things. At the very least, this gesture dramatically symbolizes our country's intention and practice of sharing with others the fruits of scientific research in space. This is in emphatic contrast to the niggardly Soviet release of space data.

The photographs also will underscore the extent to which the U.S. space program has

THE WOMEN MAY YET SAVE CHILE

Slowly, the idea that a victory for the Left in the coming presidential election of September 4 would be a catastrophe is undermining neutralist attitudes in Chile. The realization that the Popular Action Front's Communist-backed candidate Salvador Allende might try to carry out his promise to "make a revolution in Chile exactly as they made one in Cuba" surely has something to do with President Jorge Alessandri's belated decision to follow fifteen other Latin American states in breaking relations with Havana. Alessandri hasn't said so, but it could be that he doesn't want to be the last Chilean president to go out of office legally.

The interesting thing about the shift in Chile is that women have taken the lead in forcing it. Normally standoffish about politics, the Chilean women have been registering in large numbers to vote on September 4. "This can mean only one thing," says a former State Department man who has specialized in Latin countries. "In Chile they say that most ardent Catholics are the women, and the children who are still under 6. The fact that the women are going to vote means that they will support Eduardo Frei, the Christian Democratic candidate for President. This could insure Allende's defeat."

The sudden politicization of Chilean women is due to the example of Brazil, where mass demonstrations of womenfolk in Sao Paulo and Belo Horizonte fired up the men to finish off the pro-Communist government of "Jango" Goulart. Ever since the Brazilian women nipped an incipient Communist takeover, the massive evidence of attempted Castroite subversion in Brazil has been pouring into Chile. And Salvador Allende, who once hoped to ride to easy victory by promising to grab the copper properties owned by those Yankee "monopolists," the Anaconda and Kennecott companies, is now being asked uncomfortable questions about his connections with the Castroite Latin American Politburo that meets in Havana.

The Chilean decision to go along with the Organization of American States' majority in breaking with Havana puts Allende in a peculiar campaign spot. To keep his franchise with the Communists, he must promise that he will take positive action to overrule the action of the present Alessandri regime if he is elected. In effect, he is asking the Chileans to break not only with the "Yankee copper imperialists" but with practically the whole Latin America. This, to say the least, is an uncomfortable choice.

The benefits to the anti-Communist cause deriving from the Chilean break with Castro can be far-reaching all over the hemisphere if they can be maintained. Cuba has been trading its sugar to Chile for the black beans and garbanzas, of chick peas, that figure so prominently in the Cuban diet. The suspension of this trade will make Castro's population hungrier than ever. With Mexico still refusing to accept the general OAS ostracism of Cuba, Castroite agents can still move from Havana into Central America by way of Mexico City. But the Chilean action will serve to dry up Castroite penetration of Bolivia, a country which along with Mexico and Uruguay still refuses to back the OAS decision. Bolivia is landlocked and her access to the outer world is controlled by Brazil, Paraguay, Argentina, Peru, and Chile. The Chilean decision to go along with the other nations that surround Bolivia means that Castroite plotters can no longer move from Africa, on the Pacific, to the Bolivian highlands. The Communist apparatus inside Bolivia may well be crippled by its pending total isolation from the outer world.

If the Chilean women break the back of the Communist threat in Chile next month, it will be a plume in the cap of Lyndon Johnson's coordinator for Latin American affairs, Thomas Mann. It wasn't Mann's idea to send the women of Brazil into the streets to demonstrate, or to get the women of Chile to register for voting. But Mann's refusal to temporize with Latin American Communism certainly helped to nerve Brazilians and Chileans, including their womenfolk, up to the task of fighting Castroism. Johnson is getting the Latin American breaks as Kennedy never got them. And if Allende is beaten in Chile on September 4, it can only help Johnson in November. Pap Test May Also Detect Cancer of Throat, Stomach

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I recently read that the Pap test could be used to detect cancer of the mouth. Would this apply to cancer of the throat also?

A—Since the Papanicolaou or Pap test consists of a microscopic examination of a smear or discharge for isolated cancer cells, it can be applied to several locations including sputum from the lungs or bronchial tubes, washing from the stomach and smears from the throat. Usually the throat would have to be sprayed with a local anesthetic first so the swabbing could be done without causing gagging.

Q—Several months ago a tumor was removed from my leg. My doctor said it was a malignant melanoma. Is this a form of skin cancer and will it return?

A—Yes, this is a type of skin cancer. For this reason a wide area around the lesion should be removed at operation. In addition to this and following the operation, phenylalanine mustard or a related product should be injected into the affected area. When this has been done many victims of this otherwise fatal disease have been cured and have had no return of the melanoma.

Q—What causes pataca or small pinhead dots under the skin?

A—I assume you are referring to petechiae or pinpoint hemorrhages in the skin. One of the commonest causes is insect bites of various kinds. These are usually accompanied by itching. Petechiae are also seen in persons who have purpura and they are commonly associated with a great variety of acute infections. A few scattered petechiae may be seen in persons who are over 40 and who are in good health. This type is of no significance.

Q—About 10 years ago I had a detached retina and completely lost the sight of my right eye. One year ago while pulling hard on a large wrench I had a vitreous hemorrhage in my good eye which left me with only 50 per cent vision in that eye. Could straining have caused these injuries?

A—Extreme exertion might cause a hemorrhage into the vitreous humor (gelatinous portion) of the eyeball but other causes would have to be considered. Straining would not cause the retinal detachment. In most cases this occurs spontaneously although this and the vitreous hemorrhage may be caused by a severe blow on the head.

now taken the lead. The propaganda value of this will be considerable.

Most important, President Johnson has chosen this occasion to restate this country's position that the community of nations should keep "the peaceful realms of space off limits to the designs of aggressors..." The importance of that, as man enters the space age, cannot be over-emphasized.

It Would Seem the Judges Are Unanimous

Washington News

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 19 (NEA)—President Lyndon B. Johnson may decide that to choose Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota as his running mate over Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the senior Minnesotan, is to dare too many political minefields.

The obvious peril spot, of course, is Humphrey's overriding popularity among most Democratic party leaders.

Yet this alone is not sufficiently persuasive of danger. Or, generally, these leaders are saying, first, that the President should have the man he wants and, second, that they prefer Hubert.

All indications taken from first-hand talks with top Democratic suggest party leaders would not wage a floor fight to get Humphrey, and that, in any event, he would not allow it.

This does not mean Humphrey's popularity can be shrugged off. Aside from his general party standing, he has many dedicated, longtime allies. And in his own Minnesota, party people overwhelmingly prefer him to McCarthy.

Having already given the knock to Attorney General Robert Kennedy and his dedicated backers, the President may wonder about the wisdom of eliminating the only other candidate with a substantial personal following.

WHAT MAY TROUBLE Johnson more, however, is that McCarthy has emerged as the dominant choice of southern Democrats.

To pick McCarthy now will be to open the President to charges of appeasing southerners he has already made happy by dumping Bobby Kennedy and making concessions to get his anti-poverty program through Congress. These concessions include jettisoning the controversial Adam Yarmolinsky as a poverty program official.

There is outspoken skepticism in some high party quarters regarding the South's interest in McCarthy. When a Florida Democrat reported he was finding McCarthy "extremely popular" in his state, a key Washington leader snorted disbelief and added:

"He really wants McCarthy for exactly opposite reasons. The fact is, almost nobody knows him."

Johnson may wonder just how far he may safely go down the southern trail without alienating northern Democrats in some important degree.

HE HAS ANOTHER WORRY in this Humphrey-McCarthy business. An old friend says frankly the President is puzzled as to how much weight to give the religious factor. McCarthy, of course, is a Catholic.

Some weeks ago, the President was sitting around with ten of his key staff people—eight of them Catholics. He polled them on their choice for vice president. To his clear astonishment, the vote was 10-0 for Humphrey.

At least one top aide has told Johnson that many Catholics would resent his choosing a man specifically to appeal to Catholic voters. Others argue, though, that only the more sophisticated Catholics would be annoyed. So Johnson wonders.

CURIOSLY, ANY PERFECTLY SIMPLE, innocent reason for his preferring McCarthy could be nearly buried in the complex interplay presently at work. Johnson likes McCarthy and they have a nice rapport. The flamboyant Humphrey, on the other hand, might upstage the President, both in the campaign and later. Says an influential Democrat:

"Hubert could crowd him. You know—a million ideas a day."

This same Democrat says the one poll which most has caught the President's eye is that which shows him running best without any running mate at all. So, in this context, he may not be blamed for seeking the man who can do him least harm.

Nevertheless, here there is one last mind for the President to fear. To choose a vice-presidential candidate for blandness could be to risk taking on the stamp of blandness himself.

And he has a host of helpers who think he should take some risks to get emotional zip into the campaign to offset the fire-eating Goldwater zealots. What ever else may be said of him, Hubert Horatio Humphrey has that zip.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Travel is great, Home is greater. It is always nice to go, and nicer to come back. This time, after much debate, we have decided to take the little girls with us. Karen is 11, a tall, skinny beautiful blonde who eats her own weight every day. Kathleen is nine, a gorgeous flirt, a consummate actress who can kick her sister in the shins and walk away from it limping and crying.

There is a serious question of how much a child gets from travel. In this, I'm a pessimist. Years ago, when my Gayle was 11, I took her to Rome, with all its beauty, and she said: "These creeps can't even make spaghetti." In Athens, she studied the Acropolis and asked why no one repaired it. At Cairo, she had no interest in the Pyramids, but thought that the camel she rode was "wild."

I like to spend money, but I don't like to waste it. So, when Kelly and I thought about this trip, the question of Karen and Kathleen became a family riddle. We finally decided to take them—not on a sensible basis—but because "we'll worry less if they're with us."

We will take them first to Madrid. And, because I believe that everyone should try everything once, they will see a bullfight. From there, the girls will go to Rome. To my way of thinking, this city is so beautiful that the eyes become drunk. The next stop will be Athens, there to see what is left of the first of the modern cultures, and also to buy a Greek doll or two.

After that, a flight across the Mediterranean to Cairo. I might spend an hour explaining why the pharaohs built the Pyramids, and these kids, feminine to the core, will be interested solely in Cleopatra. They may even ask if Elizabeth Taylor was the original.

A few days in the Arab bazaars and we will fly to the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan, there to visit Jerusalem and Bethlehem. The children will walk the road He once walked. They will see Gethsemane and Calvary and the great Hebrew temple, which once had a cluster of solid gold grapes four stories high facing the morning sun.

From there they will cross into Israel. This will give the children an opportunity to see a young and struggling nation—the kibbutzes, the super-orthodox sects, Haifa, Tel Aviv, and maybe the Negev desert. From there, El Al airlines will fly them, in less than three hours, to Zurich, Switzerland.

In a single morning, they will

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Bobby Kennedy isn't eligible to vote in the November election in New York State, but he wants to be the Democratic candidate for the United States Senate from the Empire State anyhow.

This anomaly arises from the fact that Mr. Kennedy set forth in his authorized biography in the Congressional Record that Massachusetts is his legal residence. Nobody can vote in New York State who hasn't been a resident for at least a year. The Constitution, however, specifies only that a Senator must be an "inhabitant" of the state "when elected." This could mean that anybody who has stayed for a few days at a hotel in New York State could run for the Senate from that state.

But the complications that are bound to ensue for the major political parties are not confined to the technical question of residence. There are all sorts of dilemmas, such as the impact of the Kennedy candidacy on the Senatorial race as a whole. Republicans who have been lukewarm about supporting Sen. Cites Easier Divorces

LONDON (AP) — A Los Angeles psychiatrist says the increasing U.S. divorce rate may be caused by easier divorce procedures, rather than a rise in unhappy marriages.

Prof. Norman Brill told the first international congress of social psychiatry, that many people used poor excuses when seeking divorce.

He claimed that interfering mothers-in-law, money problems, nagging, drinking and sexual incompatibility were danger signals, but not the basic causes of divorce. He said immaturity at the time of marriage played a big role.

Cites Easier Divorces

LONDON (AP) — A Los Angeles psychiatrist says the increasing U.S. divorce rate may be caused by easier divorce procedures, rather than a rise in unhappy marriages.

Prof. Norman Brill told the first international congress of social psychiatry that many people used poor excuses when seeking divorce.

He claimed that interfering mothers-in-law, money problems, nagging, drinking and sexual incompatibility were danger signals, but not the basic causes of divorce. He said immaturity at the time of marriage played a big role.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Aug. 21, the 234th day of 1964. There are 132 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1858, the Lincoln-Douglas debates started in Ottawa, Ill., in their race for the Senate. Although Judge Stephen Douglas won the election, Abraham Lincoln became a national figure, laying the groundwork for his election to the presidency two years later.

On this date:

In 1859, Edward L. Drake struck oil in drilling a well at Titusville, Pa., the first practical well in the modern sense and the start of the gasoline era.

In 1928, in World War I, the second Battle of the Somme began.

In 1941, the Red Army blew up Russia's great Dniپر Dam.

In 1943, the Navy disclosed that the Japanese had evacuated their last North American foothold, the island of Kiska in the Aleutian chain.

Ten years ago—A British Labor party delegation arrived in Peiping to promote the establishment of full diplomatic relations between Britain and Red China.

Five years ago—The Chinese Communists reported that at least 720 persons were killed when typhoon Iris hit Fukien Province the day before.

One year ago — South Viet Nam ordered nationwide martial law after troops and police attacked pagodas and arrested hundreds of Buddhists.

There's Nothing Like Fine Cigar, Says Lady Smoker

BOSTON (AP) — Miss Rosemary O'Brien, red haired and blue eyed, sat across the dinner table in a Boston restaurant and said, "There's nothing like a fine cigar," as she put a panatela to her soft, full lips. The reaction was immediate, but Miss O'Brien paid little attention.

"When you've been smoking cigars as I have for four years, you get accustomed to having other women look at you in disbelief," said Miss O'Brien. "Strangely, women aren't as shocked as the men when I smoke my cigars in public. The men appear to be absolutely dumbfounded. In public I constantly hear one man whisper to another 'Do you see what I see?'"

Miss O'Brien, in her early 30s and a resident of Kenmore Avenue, Chicago, came to Boston as an unwanted delegate to the fourth annual national convention of the Cigar Smokers of America, meeting today and Saturday.

The national organization — made up of humidor in eight cities — would rather not have women as members.

Miss O'Brien is in the unique position of having helped found the Chicago Humidor and expand its membership to more than 160. "What's wrong with women?" asked Miss O'Brien, who stands 5 feet 5 and says she measures 37-36-35.

"I smoke up to 10 cigars a day and like to be with men who smoke cigars. A lot of women are now taking up cigar smoking."

Miss O'Brien says she started smoking cigars when she playfully took a puff of a cigar her date was smoking as they drove in a car. "I enjoyed it," she said, "and

End of Mexican Labor Will Hit West Coast Farms

By BILL BOYARSKY
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California growers are far from resigned to the loss of their braceros — those hard-working Mexicans who help harvest the great California crops.

Outside the San Joaquin Valley community of Stockton, farmer Sam Loduca glumly watched the men in straw hats harvest cucumbers for 25 cents a bushel and remarked: "I'm glad I don't like cucumbers. There won't be any next year."

Like Loduca, other growers are counting the days until Dec. 31, the expiration date of Public Law 78 under which more than 100,000 Mexican citizens came to the United States for farm work last year.

State officials say growers are quietly exerting pressure on

Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown to fight for some sort of bracero legislation next year.

Although the official position of the Council of California Growers is not to seek extension of the bracero program, farmers and the Brown administration say California agriculture faces a difficult season next year without it.

Despite the hard-core unemployment in California and elsewhere, state officials admit failure in the search for Americans to replace the bracero.

"In our view, we're going to have a real bad time next year to make up the labor force needed," said Albert B. Theburg, state employment director.

Labor's View

Organized labor says there would be no shortage of domestic labor if farmers would pay more than the $1 an hour guaranteed to the Mexican nationals. "There is no job that Americans won't do if they get paid for it," said Al Green, who directs the AFL-CIO's Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee. He suggested a $2 an hour minimum wage.

Braceros, paid by piece work, earn varying amounts. They average $1.50 an hour picking tomatoes not far from San Francisco Bay; 90 cents an hour for thinning cantaloupes in Southern California's Riverside County and $1.25 for picking cantaloupes farther north in Fresno County.

Working Pickets

LANGLEY, Ky. (AP) — The congregation of Wilson Creek Regular Baptist Church in mountainous Floyd County found a picket line the answer to its need. One day a picket at the Kentucky Hydrocarbon Co. plant showed up with a scythe. Soon there were more scythes, even a lawnmower. In no time at all, the pickets cut the grass, piled up some jagged stones and trimmed the trees in the churchyard.

End of Mexican Labor Will Hit West Coast Farms

By BILL BOYARSKY
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California growers are far from resigned to the loss of their braceros — those hard-working Mexicans who help harvest the great California crops.

Outside the San Joaquin Valley community of Stockton, farmer Sam Loduca glumly watched the men in straw hats

harvest cucumbers for 25 cents a bushel and remarked: "I'm glad I don't like cucumbers. There won't be any next year."

Like Loduca, other growers are counting the days until Dec. 31, the expiration date of Public Law 78 under which more than 100,000 Mexican citizens came to the United States for farm work last year.

State officials say growers are quietly exerting pressure on

Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown to fight for some sort of bracero legislation next year. Although the official position of the Council of California Growers is not to seek extension of the bracero program, farmers and the Brown administration say California agriculture faces a difficult season next year without it.

Despite the hard-core unemployment in California and elsewhere, state officials admit failure in the search for Americans to replace the braceros.

"In our view, we're going to have a real bad time next year to make up the labor force needed," said Albert B. Tieburg, state employment director.

can's won't do if they get paid for it," said Al Green, who directs the AFL-CIO's Agricultural Workers Organizing Committee. He suggested a $2 an hour minimum wage.

Braceros, paid by piece work, earn varying amounts. They average $1.50 an hour picking tomatoes not far from San Francisco Bay; 90 cents an hour for thinning cantaloupes in Southern California's Riverside County and $1.25 for picking cantaloupes farther north in Fresno County.

Labor's View

Organized labor says there would be no shortage of domestic labor if farmers would pay more than the $1 an hour guaranteed to the Mexican nationals. "There is no job that Ameri-

Working Pickets

LANGLEY, Ky. (AP) — The congregation of Wilson Creek Regular Baptist Church in mountainous Floyd County found a picket line the answer to its need. One day a picket at the Kentucky Hydrocarbon Co. plant showed up with a scythe. Soon there were more scythes, even a lawnmower. In no time at all, the pickets cut the grass, piled up some jagged stones and trimmed the trees in the churchyard.

Reuther Warns Of Auto Tieup

DETROIT (AP) — Notice has been served on the nation's auto industry that a strike will be scheduled next week against General Motors, Ford or Chrysler if negotiations for a new labor contract remain stalemated.

To Meet Wednesday

United Auto Workers Union officials decided Thursday in Chicago to defer until next Wednesday at a special 8 p.m. meeting in Detroit the question of whether to authorize a strike at one of the automotive industry's Big Three.

"If the companies persist in their present offers, there will be a strike," said UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

Reuther was referring to virtually-identical economic package proposals made last Monday by the auto companies.

The offer provided for higher wages, earlier retirement and larger pensions for more than half a million UAW members at automotive plants around the nation. They were promptly branded "miserably inadequate" by union leaders.

Spokesmen for the three auto companies had no comment on the union's action in postponing its selection of a strike target until next week.

Most Generous: Ford
When the economic proposal

was made, Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, termed it the "most generous we've ever made to the UAW."

Reuther said next Wednesday's meeting in Detroit would review the status of negotiations at that time and receive reports on strike votes now being taken.

Then, if necessary, the board will select a strike target. In 1961, the target was GM. In 1955 and 1958, it was Ford.

"We do not want a strike, and we shall continue to make every good faith effort at the bargaining table to avoid a strike," said the union's international executive board.

Expire Aug. 31

Present UAW contracts with GM, Ford and Chrysler expire Aug. 31.

In their package proposals, the Big Three offered pay increases ranging from 18 to 36 cents an hour over a three-year period and a boost in pension payments from $2.80 a month for each year of service to $3.25. They also proposed making 60 years the normal retirement age rather than 65.

Other provisions included adding Good Friday to the present six full-day and two half-day holidays, plus four weeks vacation pay instead of three weeks for employees with 25 years of service.

Platform Wording Takes Time Today Of Writing Group

trying to avoid a party-rendering fight over civil rights wrestling with a problem of wording today.

How far could a Democratic national platform go in trusting state and local officials to carry out the federal civil rights law?

The problem of wording was before the platform committee Thursday to Atlantic City, where the Democratic National Convention opens Monday.

Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia roused the committee to applauding enthusiasm Thursday with a plea for a civil rights plank pledging the party to support "the law of the land."

But Sanders, who personally opposed the public accommodations section of the law, also said the spirit of the law should be carried out "through local people in their own local communities, and not through fear of federal force or federal intimidation."

Later, Sanders told newsmen his idea of the proper civil rights plank is "a moderate expression that we are going to implement the law which is on the books with reason and responsibility and that we are not going to use it as a club."

Platform committee members from outside the South praised the tone of Sanders' speech as a contribution to the creation of an atmosphere in which Democrats might be able to fashion a mutually agreeable civil rights plank.

But there were doubts that the formula Sanders suggested could survive debate in the committee.

The only Negro member of the committee, Rep. William L. Dawson of Illinois, sought out Sanders after his speech to shake his hand.

"With this kind of leadership in the South, there can be a new day and a new deal," Dawson told a reporter.

Dawson, a native of Georgia, would not, however, flatly predict agreement on a civil rights plank.

Another committee member, Rep. Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin, said he is certain members of the party's liberal wing would want more recognition of the federal role in civil rights enforcement than Sanders indicated.

Sanders conferred with Southern members of the committee who have been trying to work out compromise language, and told newsmen he expects to discuss the matter further with President Johnson at a White House meeting of Southern governors this weekend. However, governors of Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama have indicated they will not attend the meeting.

Trade Commission Holds Cigarette Rule Up 6 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission has agreed to a six-month postponement of its order requiring health warnings on cigarette packages, Chairman Paul Rand Dixon said today.

In a letter to Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, Dixon said the effective date would be July 1, 1965, instead of Jan. 1, 1965.

Harris had requested the postponement.

Dixon said the delay was ordered in deference to the request. He said he hoped the postponement "will facilitate the committee's consideration of appropriate legislation to deal with the vital problem of smoking and health."

The commission ordered the new rule a few months after a government-sponsored committee named by Surgeon-General Luther L. Terry concluded that there was a link between cigarette smoking and cancer and some types of heart ailments.

At the time the new regulations were issued, the FTC said tough new restrictions on cigarette advertising would be put into effect next July 1. That date remains unchanged.

Levit Pressing

90 per cent of the cost of such roads. Highway eligible for reimbursement under the Levitt proposal would include the New York State Thruway, a toll road built at a cost of $1 billion.

He suggested limiting reimbursement to interstate highways completed after Aug. 2, 1947, or "initiated" by June 30, 1957, when the federal program took effect.

If New York were reimbursed for the Thruway, it would be possible to make the cross-state highway toll-free. It was financed with money borrowed through bond issues being repaid with tolls.

Levitt's appeal to the Democratic platform committee aligned him with the Republican state administration of Gov. Rockefeller, which long has advocated reimbursement for the Thruway.

PALMIRO TOGLIATTI

Stroke Is Fatal To Red Leader

ROME (AP)—Italian Communist boss Palmiro Togliatti, 71, died today in Russia, party headquarters here announced.

Stricken at Camp

Togliatti—veteran revolutionist, underground agent, secret propagandist and hard-fisted politician—Suffered a stroke Aug. 13 while on a vacation in Yalta. Pulmonary complications set in five days later.

He was stricken while visiting a camp of Young Pioneers—Soviet Boy Scouts. He was so gravely ill he could not be moved from the camp and remained in the camp infirmary until his death. Doctors performed exploratory brain surgery Thursday to no avail.

The passing of Togliatti is expected to open a struggle for leadership of his party, largest Communist party in the West.

Born 38 Years

Togliatti had headed Italy's Communist party for 38 years. His Roman Catholic parents named him Palmiro for Palm Sunday, the day he was born on Palm Sunday, March 26, 1893.

Togliatti went into communism in 1921, the year the Italian party was formed. Mussolini outlawed the party. Jailed by the Fascists, Togliatti later fled to Moscow.

He spent most of 18 years in exile in that Soviet capital. There he was fully indoctrinated in Stalin's iron-fisted version of communism. But in the decades that followed he rolled with the punches, surviving the ups and downs of Stalinism, de-Stalinization and Khrushchevism.

He broadcast Italian-language propaganda from Moscow in World War II until Mussolini's fall, then headed home in a shabby sweater.

Togliatti swung his party into a loose national front government with Christian Democrats and Socialists and for a time served as a Cabinet minister and a deputy premier. But he pulled the Communists out after becoming convinced that they could never get leadership of the front.

Carpenters Scratch

LONDON (AP) — British officials have discovered that fleas caused a serious drop in the production of a big railway car-penter shop.

An investigation was ordered when an efficiency expert discovered the 36 staff carpenters scratched much of their time scratching themselves.

Further investigation revealed that the fleas came from the nine cats living in the shop.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eunice Kennedy Shriver, sister of the late President Kennedy, has been hospitalized in Philadelphia, but the University of Pennsylvania Hospital says her condition is satisfactory.

Her husband, Sargent Shriver, director of the U. S. Peace Corps, said he did not know the exact nature of his wife's illness. A spokesman for the hospital said tests were being made.

Mrs. Shriver, 43, became ill at Philadelphia's International Airport as she was about to board a plane for Boston after visiting a city day camp for retarded children. She is executive vice president of the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, which contributes money to the camp.

NEW YORK (AP) — Hope Cooke, the onetime New York socialite who now is the maharani of Sikim, has come home to show off her new baby.

The maharani arrived in New York Thursday. It was the first time she had been in the United States since she married the maharajah four years ago. They took separate planes as a safety measure to protect the dynasty of Sikim.

Today, the maharani and her 6-month-old son, Prince Palden will fly to Seal Harbor, Maine, to visit Mrs. Selden Chapin, her aunt and former guardian.

Happy Granted Private Hearing In Custody Case

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—

A State Supreme Court justice of this Chenango County village, has granted a private hearing on Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller's suit to regain custody of four children by her first marriage. The children were turned over to their father, Dr. James S. Murphy, before their mother married the New York governor last year.

Justice Joseph F. Gagliardi rejected Thursday a move by Murphy to dismiss the suit and leave the children in his custody with visiting rights to the mother.

The children have been in Murphy's custody since 1962 when Mrs. Rockefeller divorced him in Idaho.

Gagliardi scheduled the private hearing for Sept. 2. He added:

"The petition states facts from which it may be inferred that the present arrangement may not be for the best interest of these minor children."

Justice Gagliardi cannot overlook the allegations to the effect that the personalities and even the health of one or more of the infants are being adversely affected.

Gagliardi, however, issued no decision on Murphy's second motion that the youngest child, Malinda, be returned to him immediately. Malinda, 4, has been with Mrs. Rockefeller since Murphy left for a honeymoon after his marriage June 10 to Miss Victoria Thompson, a teacher at a private New York City school.

The other children are Carol, 13, Margaretta, 11, and James, 13. Four years ago, Gagliardi was appointed Westchester County judge by Rockefeller. In 1961, Gagliardi was elected to the Supreme Court bench.

It was Gagliardi who waived the three-day waiting period between blood tests and Rockefeller's marriage to Mrs. Murphy.

Miss Blatt Gets Official Word Of Her Victory

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Elections Bureau finally and formally notified Miss Genevieve Blatt today that she is the winner of the bitter contest for the Democratic contest for the U. S. Senate nomination.

Her defeated opponent, Justice Michael A. Mussmanno of the state Supreme Court, still has an application for review of the results pending before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Albert Eberman, director of the Elections Bureau, said the formal notification to Miss Blatt, who is secretary of internal affairs, was based upon certified results from Philadelphia County.

The last-ditch fight Mussmanno waged before the state Supreme Court, in whose deliberations the candidate did not participate, had delayed certification of the Philadelphia returns. Under dispute were votes cast on the wrong line of the ballots. The Supreme Court ruled against Mussmanno on the issue.

The official tally as reported by the Elections Bureau gave Miss Blatt 461,111 votes to 460,620 for Mussmanno, a majority of 491.

Reuther Warns Of Auto Tieup

DETROIT (AP) — Notice has been served on the nation's auto industry that a strike will be scheduled next week against General Motors, Ford or Chrysler if negotiations for a new labor contract remain stalemated.

To Meet Wednesday
United Auto Workers Union officials decided Thursday in Chicago to defer until next Wednesday at a special 8 p.m. meeting in Detroit the question of whether to authorize a strike at one of the automotive industry's Big Three.

"If the companies persist in their present offers, there will be a strike," said UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

Reuther was referring to virtually-identical economic package proposals made last Monday by the auto companies.

The offer provided for higher wages, earlier retirement and larger pensions for more than half a million UAW members at automotive plants around the nation. They were promptly branded "misleadingly inadequate" by union leaders.

Spokesmen for the three auto companies had no comment on the union's action in postponing its selection of a strike target until next week.

Most Generous: Ford

When the economic proposal

was made, Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, termed it the "most generous we've ever made to the UAW."

Reuther said next Wednesday's meeting in Detroit would review the status of negotiations at that time and receive reports on strike votes now being taken.

Then, if necessary, the board will select a strike target. In 1961, the target was GM. In 1955 and 1958, it was Ford.

"We do not want a strike, and we shall continue to make every good faith effort at the bargaining table to avoid a strike," said the union's international executive board.

Expire Aug. 31

Present UAW contracts with GM, Ford and Chrysler expire Aug. 31.

In their package proposals, the Big Three offered pay increases ranging from 18 to 36 cents an hour over a three-year period and a boost in pension payments from $2.80 a month for each year of service to $3.25.

They also proposed making 60 years the normal retirement age rather than 65.

Other provisions included adding Good Friday to the present six full-day and two half-day holidays, plus four weeks vacation pay instead of three weeks for employees with 25 years of service.

Platform Wording Takes Time Today Of Writing Group

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Democratic platform writers trying to avoid a party-rendering fight over civil rights wrestled with a problem of wording today.

How far could a Democratic national platform go in trusting state and local officials to carry out the federal civil rights law?

The problem of wording was before the platform committee which moved its operations Thursday to Atlantic City, where the Democratic National Convention opens Monday.

Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia roused the committee to applauding enthusiasm Thursday with a plea for a civil rights plank pledging the party to support "the law of the land."

But Sanders, who personally opposed the public accommodations section of the law, also said the spirit of the law should be carried out "through local people in their own local communities, and not through fear of federal force or federal intimidation."

Later, Sanders told newsmen his idea of the proper civil rights plank is "a moderate expression that we are going to implement the law which is on the books with reason and responsibility and that we are not going to use it as a club."

Platform committee members from outside the South praised the tone of Sanders' speech as a contribution to the creation of an atmosphere in which Democrats might be able to fashion a mutually agreeable civil rights plank.

But there were doubts that the formula Sanders suggested could survive debate in the committee.

The only Negro member of the committee, Rep. William L. Dawson of Illinois, sought out Sanders after his speech to shake his hand.

"With this kind of leadership in the South, there can be a new day and a new deal," Dawson told a reporter.

Dawson, a native of Georgia, would not, however, flatly predict agreement on a civil rights plank.

Another committee member, Rep. Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin, said he is certain members of the party's liberal wing would want more recognition of the federal role in civil rights enforcement than Sanders indicated.

Sanders conferred with Southern members of the committee who have been trying to work out compromise language, and told newsmen he expects to discuss the matter further with President Johnson at a White House meeting of Southern governors this weekend. However, governors of Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama have indicated they will not attend the meeting.

Trade Commission Holds Cigarette Rule Up 6 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission has agreed to a six-month postponement of its order requiring health warnings on cigarette packages, Chairman Paul Rand Dixon said today.

In a letter to Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, Dixon said the effective date would be July 1, 1965, instead of Jan. 1, 1965.

Harris had requested the postponement.

Dixon said the delay was ordered in deference to the request. He said he hoped the postponement "will facilitate the committee's consideration of appropriate legislation to deal with the vital problem of smoking and health."

The commission ordered the new rule a few months after a government-sponsored committee named by Surgeon-General Luther L. Terry concluded that there was a link between cigarette smoking and cancer and some types of heart ailments.

At the time the new regulations were issued, the FTC said tough new restrictions on cigarette advertising would be put into effect next July 1. That date remains unchanged.

Levitt Pressing

90 per cent of the cost of such roads.

Highways eligible for reimbursement under the Levitt proposal would include the New York State Thruway, a toll road built at a cost of $1 billion.

He suggested limiting reimbursement to interstate highways completed after Aug. 2, 1947, or initiated by June 30, 1957, when the federal program took effect.

If New York were reimbursed for the Thruway, it would be possible to make the cross-state highway toll-free. It was financed with money borrowed through bond issues being repaid with tolls.

Levitt's appeal to the Democratic platform committee aligned him with the Republican state administration of Gov. Rockefeller, which long has advocated reimbursement for the Thruway.

PALMIRO TOGLIATTI

Stroke Is Fatal To Red Leader

ROME (AP) — Italian Communist boss Palmiro Togliatti, 71, died today in Russia, party headquarters here announced.

Stricken at Camp

Togliatti—veteran revolutionist, underground agent, secret propagandist and hard-fisted politician—Suffered a stroke Aug. 13 while on a vacation in Yalta. Pulmonary complications set in five days later.

He was stricken while visiting a camp of Young Pioneers—Soviet Boy Scouts. He was so gravely ill he could not be moved from the camp and remained in the camp infirmary until his death. Doctors performed exploratory brain surgery Thursday to no avail.

The passing of Togliatti is expected to open a struggle for leadership of his party, largest Communist party in the West.

Boss 38 Years

Togliatti had headed Italy's Communist party for 38 years. His Roman Catholic parents named him Palmiro for Palm Sunday, the day he was born—on Palm Sunday, March 26, 1893.

Togliatti went into communism in 1921, the year the Italian party was formed. Mussolini outlawed the party. Jailed by the Fascists, Togliatti later fled to Moscow.

He spent most of 18 years in exile in the Soviet capital. There he was fully indoctrinated in Stalin's iron-fisted version of communism. But in the decades that followed he rolled with the punches, surviving the ups and downs of Stalinism, de-Stalinization and Khrushchevism.

He broadcast Italian-language propaganda from Moscow in World War II until Mussolini's fall, then headed home in a shabby blue Soviet suit and a striped sweater.

Togliatti swung his party into a loose national front government with Christian Democrats and Socialists and for a time served as a Cabinet minister and a deputy premier. But he pulled the Communists out after becoming convinced that they could never get leadership of the front.

Carpenters Scratch

LONDON (AP) — British officials have discovered that fleas caused a serious drop in the production of a big railway car-penter shop.

An investigation was ordered when an efficiency expert discovered the 36 staff carpenters spent much of their time scratching themselves.

Further investigation revealed that the fleas came from the nine cats living in the shop.

Happy Granted Private Hearing In Custody Case

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice of this Chenango County village, has granted a private hearing on Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller's suit to regain custody of four children by her first marriage.

The children were turned over to their father, Dr. James S. Murphy, before their mother married the New York governor last year.

Justice Joseph F. Gagliardi rejected Thursday a move by Murphy to dismiss the suit and leave the children in his custody with visiting rights to the mother.

The children have been in Murphy's custody since 1962, when Mrs. Rockefeller divorced him in Idaho.

Gagliardi scheduled the private hearing for Sept. 2. He added:

"The petition states facts from which it may be inferred that the present arrangement may not be for the best interest of these minor children."

"The court... cannot overlook the allegations to the effect that the personalities and even the health of one or more of the infants are being adversely affected."

Gagliardi, however, issued no decision on Murphy's second motion that the youngest child, Malinda, be returned to him immediately. Malinda, 4, has been with Mrs. Rockefeller since Murphy left for a honeymoon after his marriage June 1962 to Miss Victoria Thompson, a teacher at a private New York City school.

The other children are Carol, 13, Margaretta, 11, and James, 13.

Four years ago, Gagliardi was appointed a Westchester county judge by Rockefeller. In 1961, Gagliardi was elected to the Supreme Court bench.

It was Gagliardi who waived the three-day waiting period between blood tests and Rockefeller's marriage to Mrs. Murphy.

NEW YORK (AP) — What Americans are doing with their money this summer and what they plan to do shines forth today in a spate of government and private statistics.

—Bank customers are pushing their money into and out of their checking accounts at a faster rate than earlier this year, and much faster than a year ago.

—Stock traders are betting less now on a drop in prices than they were just a month back.

Fewer New Homes

—Fewer people are starting new homes than earlier this year, or this time last year.

—Stockholders are getting slightly bigger cash dividend payments this summer than last.

—Businessmen are ordering more durable goods from manufacturers again after a two-months slowdown and the backlog of unfilled orders has risen — to promise brisk activity in the weeks and months ahead.

Couples Club Plans Early Fall Program

The Young Couples Club of the Tillson Reformed Church held a meeting at the home of Robert Howe Wednesday night and discussed plans for coming activities.

The club is planning to play miniature golf at Hyde Park Friday, Aug. 21 and will meet at the Tillson parsonage at 6:15 p. m.

Next Sunday, Aug. 31, there will be a work party and picnic at Arnold Benjamin's new home on River Road.

The next regular meeting will be held 8 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 30 at the home of Ronald Vernooij, Tillson.

It adds up to a mixed picture, but with the bullish-minded still in the foreground.

The ways of people with their checking accounts are revealed by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in a report today on demand deposit turnover. This shows that in 337 localities outside the major money centers the velocity rate increased 2½ per cent in July over June, and 3 per cent over July 1963.

In New York City the turnover rate went up 10 per cent in the month to a new high, money going in and out of checking accounts 22 per cent faster than a year ago.

In the six other leading financial centers — Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco and Los Angeles — bank customers turned over their accounts at a 4½ per cent faster rate in July than in June, and 5 per cent higher than last year.

Reflects Activity

The turnover rate sheds light on the general economic activity and on the effective supply of money available to the economy.

The New York Stock Exchange reports that in the month ended Aug. 14 the short interest dropped by 239,735 shares to a total of 6,400,795. This is a measure of bearish sentiment, since it shows that in the issues involved some traders expect to buy back their borrowed stock at a lower price. The drop in the total reflects a slight dimming of bearish sentiment. Since only 0.1 per cent of all shares listed are involved, the bearish element seems pretty slim just now.

Housing starts are another matter. They dropped 5 per cent in July from June and were 4 per cent below a year ago. For the May-July period starts were 2 per cent below the 1963 period.

Stockholders got cash dividend payments in July totalling $1,158,000,000, compared to $1,082,000,000 in the 1963 month.

All in all, the money continues to flow at a faster than usual rate this summer, and this gives businessmen — except maybe home builders — high hopes for the autumn.

Security Even Shrouds Benefit Party of Beetles

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Los Angeles police wish this was the weekend that wasn't. The Beatles invasion begins Sunday when the British quartet set down their chartered airplane at an undesignated field. The plan is for them to radio in their destination shortly before their arrival from British Columbia, thus to avoid a mob scene—they hope.

They will have a news conference at the Cinnamon Cider night club in the San Fernando Valley, then leave for the concert at the Hollywood Bowl. Its 22,000 seats were sold out hours after they went on sale two months ago. One pair of down-front tickets reportedly went for $1,500 on the black market.

Turned down by leading hotels, the Beatles are said to be staying at the home of a television executive. They are scheduled to appear Monday night at a party attended by movie stars and others who are permitted to bring their children. All will pay $25 a head to benefit the Hemophilia Foundation. Security also surrounds the location of the party; it won't be known until hours before the affair.

The Beatles fly out late Tuesday or early Wednesday, not a bit too soon for the local peace officers.

Julie Andrews finished "The Sound of Music" but is staying on for the world premiere of "Mary Poppins" next week. She reports: "It's Walt Disney's first premiere since 'Snow White' — isn't that amazing?"

Besides presenting his most ambitious live-action film, Disney has a special reason for the premiere and champagne reception: to stimulate interest and donors for Cal Arts, the school of the arts he is helping to found.

Goldwater Said To Favor Facing Johnson on TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater was described today as willing to face President Johnson in a television series proposed by the National Broadcasting Co.

Goldwater's press secretary, Paul Wagner, said the Arizona senator wouldn't be interested in a format that would have the presidential contenders appear separately.

President Silent

Johnson was silent on the NBC invitation to put him and Goldwater — jointly or separately — on the air in a full hour series of "Meet the Press" television programs.

NBC board chairman Robert W. Sarnoff outlined the offer in identical telegrams to Goldwater and Johnson. He said the plan was designed to substitute for actual television debates.

Goldwater could not be reached for comment, but Wagner said the Republican nominee "would accept on a face-to-face basis only."

"Separate appearances is hardly a debate," the press secretary said.

Blames Johnson

Meanwhile Republican National Chairman Dean Burch charged Senate Democrats obviously were operating on instructions from Johnson when they rolled up a party line majority Tuesday night to kill legislation aimed at paving the way for debates on radio and television by suspending the "equal time" requirement for the presidential campaign.

"I can understand why President Johnson desires to avoid debating Sen. Goldwater, having seen the President on television several times," Burch said.

Would Pay Half

He said the Republican National Committee is willing to put up half the cost of television time if Johnson will agree to appear with Goldwater.

Goldwater, in a speech at the Illinois State Fair Wednesday, declared: "I am willing to debate and I'm willing to pay for the time."

Later, Goldwater told reporters "the Republican party will pay for it. We'll buy the time."

He estimated it would cost about $500,000 to air a debate on three television networks.

Sarnoff proposed a series of six programs, two of them for appearances by Rep. William E. Miller, the Republican vice presidential nominee, and the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

He said the programs would be scheduled Sunday nights on the NBC radio and television networks, between early September and Election Day.

NBC offered to make them available to other networks.

Defense Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed into law a bill appropriating $46.8 billion for American defense at home and abroad this year.

The big money bill, for the fiscal year ending next June 30, includes $207 million to pay for raises for Congress approved for U.S. servicemen beginning next month.

As usual it is the largest appropriation bill sent by Congress to the White House, accounting for almost half the annual national budget. Johnson signed it Wednesday, the White House announced today.

The total of $46.8 billion is $719 million less than Johnson had asked for the Defense Department in the 1965 fiscal year. It is $1.5 billion less than the department received last fiscal year.

Political Battlefront

Clashes Flare Anew Over LBJ Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a political battlefront ranging from Capitol Hill to the Pentagon the Johnson administration clashed anew with Republicans over its Southeast Asian and defense policies.

The fresh outbreak of sharp skirmishing reinforced belief the presidential campaign, still not officially under way, may turn into a long, hot autumn.

Hit 'No-Win' Policy
The Defense Department and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield led the administration counterattack Thursday. And GOP congressional leaders accused the government of pursuing a "no win" policy in south Viet Nam in an effort to postpone tough decisions until after the election.

The Pentagon issued a long statement challenging in detail data and statements of GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater on future U.S. nuclear capability.

On Wednesday, Goldwater repeated and elaborated on his previous charge that if present defense policies continue American "deliverable nuclear capacity may be cut by 90 per cent" in the 1970s.

"It is false and, if the senator would trouble to inform himself, he would learn that it is false," the Pentagon retorted in its statement, which it said was issued after consultation with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Quiet Marks Desegregation In Jackson

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Desegregation came quietly to this capital city's public school system.

Forty-three Negro children signed up Thursday to attend first-grade classes in eight previously all-white elementary schools.

However, over-all registration was lower than expected. At the all-Negro schools, only 567 first-graders registered although officials had forecast an enrollment of 1,800.

Registration of white pupils was also down, with 1,705 enrollments out of an expected 2,000. School authorities and civil rights leaders said they had no explanation for the decrease.

With the four-hour registration period, Jackson — the state's largest city — became the second public school system in Mississippi to desegregate under federal court orders. Seventeen Negroes enrolled last week at formerly all-white schools at Biloxi.

Two other school systems face desegregation this fall. Leake County and Clarksdale will integrate first grade classes in September and Clarksdale will drop racial barriers in the second grade in February.

No Negroes have actually attended classes with whites under the integration order. Negroes only registered here and at Biloxi. Classes begin here Sept. 14 while Biloxi schools open Aug. 31.

Mississippi was the last state to lower racial barriers in its tax-supported educational facilities below the college level.

Drivers Fined

Anthony Buzzanco Sr., 33, of 47 Summer Street, charged recently with speeding and a stop-sign violation, was found guilty after city court hearing today. He was fined $15 for speeding and $5 on the other charge. Louis McMahon, 27, of Rifton, charged with speeding, pleaded guilty and was fined $15. Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralls and airlines made sizable gains in an irregularly rising stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Cigarette stocks resumed their recent upswing. Steels edged higher on balance. Motors were mixed as suspense continued about the auto labor situation.

Fractional gains were the rule for most key stocks but advances of a point or more were scored by some of the leading rails and airlines.

Railroads were spurred by another ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission, this one rescinding, in effect, a recent decision calling for indefinite postponement of the Nickel Plate-Norfolk & Western merger.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .56 at 315.6 with industrials up .4, rails up 1.3 and utilities off .2. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .52 at 839.23.

Positioning Coming Fine For Syncom 3

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The space agency reported today that Syncom 3 had achieved a near-stationary orbit and said it was confident the communications package could be maneuvered into position as the world's first stationary satellite — one that hovers over a single spot on earth.

"Syncom 3 looks very good and is in near-synchronous (stationary) orbit," a statement said. "After evaluation of the data, project officials will determine what future maneuvers will be made."

Evaluation of tracking data had been delayed several hours by a balky computer at the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.

The near-stationary orbit was achieved high above Sumatra Thursday when a satellite motor fired to shift Syncom 3 out of a wide-looping path into a circular orbit where both the high and low points are about 23,000 miles.

The motor firing, triggered by a ground radio signal, also increased the spacecraft speed so that it matched that of the rotation of the earth. Thus, the satellite appears to hang almost motionless over the Sumatra area in the Indian Ocean.

It was hoped the maneuver would arrest Syncom 3 directly above the equator. However, this was not fully realized and the satellite apparently is weaving north and south across the equatorial line at a slight angle.

The angular movement can be eliminated by radio commands to small gas jets aboard the satellite. These jets also will be used to move Syncom 3 from the position above Sumatra to a stationary outpost above the Pacific Ocean intersection of the equator and International Date Line. The maneuvering is expected to take about 10 days.

In that permanent position, the satellite, which was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, would be available for extensive communications experiments between stations in the United States and Asia.

Only three such satellites, equally spaced about the equator, would provide worldwide coverage.

The mid-Pacific location also was selected because Syncom 3 would be in position to relay television pictures of the Oct. 10-24 Olympic Games in Japan for distribution in North America and Europe.

Drought Farmers

(46½ quarts) additional during the eight-month period. The cooperative leaders said the drought had damaged severely such feed crops as hay, corn and oats. Farmers have been forced to use feed they normally would reserve for the winter "barn feeding" months, they said.

Estimates Up to $1,000
A spokesman for the Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives said the average milk producer would have to spend between $3,000 and $4,000 extra for feed because of the drought.

The petition pointed out that 20 counties in New York State had been designated as drought disaster areas, and that farmers thus were allowed to cut hay and graze livestock on land otherwise taken out of production. Nevertheless, the petition said, such emergency measures were not sufficient to meet the problem.

Besides Mutual, organizations that participated in the meeting were the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency and United Milk Producers of New Jersey.

By Saturday night, said the speaker, the picture had changed in the strife-torn area from a mob violence to small groups of rioters looting and causing trouble on a "hit and run basis." By this time there were also about 400 State Police within the city. Continuing trouble finally caused the Governor to issue a proclamation calling out the National Guard, which had been alerted 24 hours before, said Aldrich. On Sunday afternoon units of the National Guard, numbering 1,600 armed men, moved into Rochester—all as a result of the planning sessions that had been held months prior to the Rochester troubles. These armed units were driven through the riot area and "people saw that the state meant business," remarked Aldrich.

BABSON DISCUSSES THE 'COLLECTING' CRAZE

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 21—I doubt that there has ever been such a craze for collecting things as there is throughout the country today. Coins, old furniture, stamps, glassware, paintings, books, and many other articles are being bought and hoarded on an almost unbelievable scale. What is behind this scramble for collectors' items—why has it reached such a fever pitch?

Inflation Fears Mays Be Behind It

It is my opinion that people have always loved collecting material things that have caught their fancy. History indicates this, especially through archaeological studies. But today there seems to be an extra incentive, and I believe that it is a conscious (or sometimes unconscious) fear of inflation. When you stop to think of it, inflation has been going on for longer than statistics have been available. It is punctuated by only temporary periods of deflation, then it resumes. So the assumption by most people that more inflation will come seems reasonable enough.

Even the most casual economic observer knows that money itself becomes less valuable intrinsically as the cost of the goods it will buy increases. Therefore many seem to feel that if they start hoarding some articles these are going to be worth more in terms of dollars in days to come and they will be better off than if they hoarded the dollars themselves. You probably wonder whether I believe in such collecting as a type of hedge against possible further declines in the purchasing power of the dollar. The answer is "Yes—IF your collecting is done with intelligence, restraint and know-how."

What Are the Safest Bets?

Antiques always make a good investment, but you must know what you are doing. Avoid stuffed furniture, for example, books that may be old but otherwise undistinguished, most of the ancient prints that adorned living-room walls in earlier years, stamps of foreign nations that have been turned out pretty much for the collecting trade, and so on. For a start in antique furniture, it is still a good idea to check up on things that may have come down to you as family heirlooms. Shift the things in your attic, or on your family farm.

Keep an eye out for fine mahogany furniture, Sandwich glass pieces, early costume jewelry, articles of gold or silver, old coins, and U.S. stamps. Even a broken-down article of furniture is often valuable after it is restored, particularly if the wood is fine and the piece is of the right period. Restorers of antiques can usually replace missing parts. Take any doubtful glassware to an expert; it may be only a copy . . . but it could be Sandwich glassware, and that is always valuable.

Be Selective With Coins and Stamps

Amateur coin collectors now number in the millions, and they will often buy up freshly minted coins at a foolish premium. A perfect example of this is the recent withdrawal of Kennedy half-dollars by hoarders. So many have been issued that they will never be any more valuable unless the price of silver is allowed to go so high that it would be worth while to melt down any silver coins—something the government will certainly try to avoid. Keep a few contemporary coins in mint condition if you have a large-scale collection; but pay greatest attention to historic coins that can never again be minted.

Foreign stamps are not usually worth very much; the exceptions are rare. But U.S. stamps in good condition and of sought-after issues should always be worth money. If you have some interesting early U.S. stamps, you can get an idea of their value by consulting a stamp catalog at your library. Or you could seek professional advice, but be sure your man is responsible and honest.

Concentrate on Irreplaceable Things

There is one basic rule to remember when assembling things to hold as inflation hedges: Concentrate on items which can never be increased in supply. An astute collector or dealer recognizes that there will never be any more old U.S. coins, Sandwich glass, genuine Heppelwhite furniture—or, for that matter, waterfront property or underground natural resources.

Ding-Dongs Probed

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet doorbells are under attack. Even when not ringing, they use up all the power that can be generated by a normal hydroelectric station, a reader writes Izvestia, the government paper. The reader said that he has discovered that all Soviet doorbells are equipped with tiny transformers which constantly use power.

The writer said he has complained to the government, but was told the design cannot be altered.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

When Oscar V. Newkirk was mayor, he proclaimed, the first week in November as Art Week, which was told about in the Freeman of Oct. 30, 1948, reading, in part: "Whereas, for the past 17 years the first week in November has been celebrated as American Art Week in the United States . . . Whereas, in the City of Kingston, the home of John Vanderlyn, Jarvis McEntee, and the birthplace of Julia Dillon and many other famous American artists, is one of the cradles of American fine art . . ."

According to the Kingston Argus of Wednesday, Feb. 4, 1891, which told of Jarvis McEntee's death, and the date of his birth "London in 1828. Jarvis S. McEntee was also a poet, and . . . Knickerbocker Magazine. He married in 1845, Gertrude, daughter of the Rev. T. J. Sawyer, DD, of New York City. They had no children. She died 12 years before him. Funeral service was held from his home on Chestnut Street. Jarvis S. McEntee's name appears in the World Almanac of 1945.

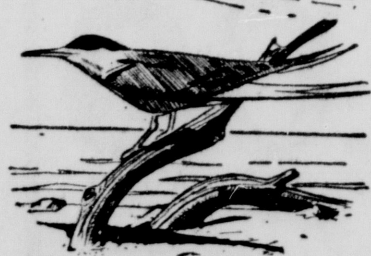

I had a chance to drop in at Brit's Department Store in the new Kingston Shopping Plaza. They have a gallery and social room open to the public in charge of Mrs. Helen Carr. This week there is an excellent display of oil paintings of two of our Kingston artists, Robert Strickland and John McEntee. The gallery is large, and one can step a good distance away and really admire the paintings. In art school we used to use a reducing glass, to look at our work without stepping back. When you are close to a painting you see brush strokes and paint, but when you step a distance away you see the picture.

Thompson Takes State Course for Inspecting Meats

Frank W. Thompson of 109 Fair Street has completed a specialized course of instruction in the Principles of Meat Hygiene and Inspection at the New York State Veterinary College, Cornell University, Ithaca. This training program will permit the extension of meat inspection by the Department of Agriculture and Markets, State of New York, to all State licensed slaughterhouses.

Representatives of the Meat Inspection Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and of the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine at Cornell University participated in the training. In providing inspection for all State licensed slaughterhouses, not under inspection by the federal government, the department will have taken a great step forward to insure compliance with the provisions of the meat inspection law as it pertains to red meats. All red meats transported and sold in the state must be wholesome, produced from healthy animals and free from adulteration and contamination.

Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets, Don J. Wickham, reports that all veterinarians of the Division of Meat Inspection are participating in the training program under the supervision of Dr. William E. Jennings, director of that division.

Even a broken-down article of furniture is often valuable after it is restored, particularly if the wood is fine and the piece is of the right period. Restorers of antiques can usually replace missing parts. Take any doubtful glassware to an expert; it may be only a copy . . . but it could be Sandwich glassware, and that is always valuable.

Be Selective With Coins and Stamps

Amateur coin collectors now number in the millions, and they will often buy up freshly minted coins at a foolish premium. A perfect example of this is the recent withdrawal of Kennedy half-dollars by hoarders. So many have been issued that they will never be any more valuable unless the price of silver is allowed to go so high that it would be worth while to melt down any silver coins—something the government will certainly try to avoid. Keep a few contemporary coins in mint condition if you have a large-scale collection; but pay greatest attention to historic coins that can never again be minted.

Foreign stamps are not usually worth very much; the exceptions are rare. But U.S. stamps in good condition and of sought-after issues should always be worth money. If you have some interesting early U.S. stamps, you can get an idea of their value by consulting a stamp catalog at your library. Or you could seek professional advice, but be sure your man is responsible and honest.

Concentrate on Irreplaceable Things

There is one basic rule to remember when assembling things to hold as inflation hedges: Concentrate on items which can never be increased in supply. An astute collector or dealer recognizes that there will never be any more old U.S. coins, Sandwich glass, genuine Heppelwhite furniture—or, for that matter, waterfront property or underground natural resources.

Ding-Dongs Probed

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet doorbells are under attack. Even when not ringing, they use up all the power that can be generated by a normal hydroelectric station, a reader writes Izvestia, the government paper. The reader said that he has discovered that all Soviet doorbells are equipped with tiny transformers which constantly use power.

The writer said he has complained to the government, but was told the design cannot be altered.

DIPLOMAT: This alkaloid is named after a reputable French diplomat who had nothing more to do with its use or discovery than smoking a cigarette. Jean Nicot introduced tobacco into France and it became known as "nicotine."

BERRY'S WORLD

RICAN IDSTAND

"OKAY, EVERYBODY, let's do the LUCI-WATUSI!"

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

When Oscar V. Newkirk was mayor, he proclaimed the first week in November as Art Week, which was told about in the Freeman of Oct. 30, 1948, read, in part: "Whereas, for the past 17 years the first week in November has been celebrated as American Art Week in the United States . . . Whereas, in the City of Kingston, the home of John Vanderlyn, Jarvis McEntee, and the birthplace of Julia Dillon and many other famous American artists, is one of the cradles of American fine art . . ."

According to the Kingston Argus of Wednesday, Feb. 4, 1891, which told of Jarvis McEntee's death, and the date of his birth, "Jarvis S. McEntee was born in Kingston, N.Y., on Oct. 30, 1828. He was a poet, and a Knickerbocker Magazine. He married in 1845, Gertrude, daughter of the Rev. T. J. Sawyer, D.D., of New York City. They had no children. She died 12 years before him. Funeral service was held from his home on Chestnut Street. Jarvis S. McEntee's name appears in the World Almanac of 1945."

I had a chance to drop in at Britt's Department Store in the new Kingston Shopping Plaza. They have a gallery and social room open to the public in charge of Mrs. Helen Carr. This week there is an excellent display of oil paintings of two of our Kingston artists, Robert Strickland and John McEntee. The gallery is large, and one can step a good distance away and really admire the paintings. In art school we used to use a reducing glass, to look at our work without stepping back. When you are close to a painting you see brush strokes and paint, but when you step a distance away you see the picture.

Thompson Takes State Course for Inspecting Meats

Frank W. Thompson of 109 Fair Street has completed a specialized course of instruction in the Principles of Meat Hygiene and Inspection at the New York State Veterinary College, Cornell University, Ithaca. This training program will permit the extension of meat inspection by the Department of Agriculture and Markets, State of New York, to all State licensed slaughterhouses.

Representatives of the Meat Inspection Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and of the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine at Cornell University participated in the training.

In providing inspection for all State licensed slaughterhouses, not under inspection by the federal government, the department will have taken a great step forward to insure compliance with the provisions of the meat inspection law as it pertains to red meats. All red meats transported and sold in the state must be wholesome, produced from healthy animals and free from adulteration and contamination.

Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets, Don J. Wickham, reports that all veterinarians of the Division of Meat Inspection are participating in the training program under the supervision of Dr. William E. Jennings, director of that division.

The longest and the most remarkable of all bird migrations is that of the Arctic tern. Its breeding range extends as far north as land exists and as far south as the Aleutian Islands, Great Slave Lake, Massachusetts and northern Europe. The average Arctic tern travels approximately 11,000 miles during its migratory flight.

On Midshipman Cruise

Midshipman First Class Robert F. Sermer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sermer of Main Street, Bloomington, was aboard the Navy attack aircraft carrier USS Franklin D. Roosevelt during a midshipman training cruise which ended July 25.

The cruise provided him with experience in seamanship, navigation, shipboard routine, and naval aviation procedures. He also participated in leadership programs and acted as a junior officer in various shipboard departments.

With Pacific Squadron

Robert E. Brandow, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Brandow of 42 Ravine Street, Kingston, is serving with Air Anti-Submarine Squadron 29 aboard the anti-submarine warfare aircraft carrier USS Kearsarge, operating with the Seventh Fleet in the Far East.

Kearsarge is the hub of an anti-submarine warfare "Hunter-Killer" group composed of surface, sub-surface and air units designed to find and destroy enemy submarines.

Kearsarge is scheduled to visit ports in Japan, the Philippines and Hong Kong.

Begins Navy Basic

Robert E. Binns, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Binns of 146 Hudson Street, Kingston, has begun basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The nine-weeks training includes naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, military drill, first aid and survival.

During the training recruits receive tests and interviews which determine their future assignments in the Navy. Upon completing the program they are assigned to service schools for technical training or to ships and stations for on-the-job training in a Navy rating specialty.

Bruce Baisden, seaman, USN, grandson of Mrs. Marle Sottile of 16 Vincent Street, Kingston, is a crew member of the attack aircraft carrier USS Constellation operating off the coast of Southeastern Asia.

The Constellation, one of the Navy's mobile floating airbases, provides fuel, maintenance and supplies for more than 80 airplanes of assorted types and sizes.

Accused Slayer Called Deranged In Mental Test

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Herbert Shockey, on trial for the slaying of a Sherrill, N.Y., couple, is a "severely mentally deranged individual," according to a psychiatrist who testified in his defense.

Dr. Carl Breitner, who took the stand Thursday, was one of the psychiatrists who examined Shockey to determine whether he was competent to stand trial.

The defense maintains that Shockey is innocent, by reason of insanity, in the slaying of John R. Bertella, 62, and his wife, Mildred, 64. Their bodies were found last Feb. 24 near Apache Junction, Ariz.

Breitner testified that Shockey did not have hallucinations, but was preoccupied with religion. He said Shockey told him he killed the New York couple because, in Shockey's mind, they had persecuted Mormon prophet Joseph Smith.

Maricopa County Sheriff L.C. (Cal) Boies said previously that Shockey had admitted the slayings.

Another of Shockey's sisters, Mrs. Phyllis Nakamura, also took the stand in his defense Thursday. She said she visited Shockey twice in his jail cell and "when we first arrived, he just walked past us."

Earlier in the trial, Sharon Miles, a sister of Shockey, and Mrs. Lola Gordon, his mother, testified that Shockey had become "withdrawn" after his release from federal prison in 1962. He served a term for taking a stolen automobile across state lines.

Buffalo Killed by Truck

HILLSBORO, Ill. (AP)—The life of a buffalo away from the range isn't worth a nickel these days. One wandered onto the highway from the farm of John Cabetto Thursday and was killed by a truck. Surviving pets on the central Illinois farm include deer and a camel.

Firm Keeping Up U. N. Shows, Birchers Ired

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) —

Xerox Corp. still plans to sponsor television programs about the United Nations, despite a barrage of objecting letters apparently sent by members of the right-wing John Birch Society.

The company has received 9,000 letters, presumably many from Birch Society members, protesting the sponsorship of six 90-minute dramatizations of U.N. work.

The society's July bulletin asked that letters of objection be sent to Xerox, a Rochester firm that manufactures photo-copying equipment.

Last month, a Birch Society official, John Rousselot, called the U.N. "an instrument of the Soviet Communist conspiracy." But a Xerox spokesman said Friday the company "will not be dissuaded from support of these programs."

The programs are slated to appear this fall.

Over Half Complete Tests

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — More than half the Polaris missile submarines in a planned fleet of 41 have completed launching exercises.

The Tecumseh Thursday became the 21st sub to conclude test and training firings when it launched a Polaris A3 missile while submerged off Cape Kennedy. The rocket propelled a warhead section to a target area more than 2,000 miles away.

More than 100 million Americans vacation by automobile every year, according to estimates.

Mistaken Phone Call Reaches Nun; Not Coming Down

By ANN CLAUSMEYER
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP)—The telephone in the girl's dormitory rang and a male voice said, "Hi, how soon will you be down?"

"I...I think you have the wrong number," stammered the young lady. "I'll transfer your call to the switchboard."

The caller had mistakenly rung the telephone of Sister Dolores Anne of the Sisters of St. Joseph from Auburn, N.Y.

Misdirected telephone calls are just part of the unique experiences of 22 Roman Catholic nuns studying at Boston University this summer and living at the Towers Dormitory.

The nuns occupy the entire fifth floor of the double-wing brick building. They come from 10 states and eastern Canada. They represent nine religious orders and are studying for master's degrees in business, music and speech.

The idea of nuns occupying a dormitory with non-religious persons was developed by a nun three years ago.

When Mother Mary Eithne of Marymount College, Tarrytown, N.Y., was given a grant to study public relations at BU, she found a dearth of convents close by. She suggested to BU officials that the religious be housed in the dormitories with other students during summer sessions.

"We're very handy to Our Lady of Lourdes Chapel in Kenmore Square for daily Mass," said Sister Mariella of the Sisters of St. Joseph from Rochester, N.Y. "And if we have to study up for that extra bit of studying at night, there's always the noon Mass, after morning classes."

The sisters, most of whom teach in high school and college, say their life at the Towers isn't much different from life during the rest of the year.

"Except, of course, that we're on the other side of the desk," said Sister Mariella.

Boston University is by tradition Methodist related, but has long been non-sectarian.

Optimistic About Future

Hawaii Leaders Excited
By Growth in Five Years

By HARRY MOSKOS
HONOLULU (AP) — Coconut trees have given way to concrete but the ocean remains blue and skies sunny as Hawaii celebrates its fifth year as a state.

The youngest state in the Union maintains its leisurely atmosphere, but now as a modern American metropolis in the subtropical mid Pacific.

Hawaii's business and government leaders are excited by the rapid growth of the past five years and speak optimistically about the promise of the future. But others grumble in despair at the high cost of such progress. Some complain that the 50th state is changing in ways that would destroy it.

Hawaii, said author Philip Wylie, may soon become a "jammed up shambles of hives for human beings, interrupted by petrochemical complexes, bowling alley monstrosities, city dumps and rocket launching pads."

Polynesia Can't Exist

But officials say such critics may be seeing only the romantic side — the fabled Polynesia that cannot exist in this day and age.

They cite a Hawaii Visitors Bureau prediction that 500,000 tourists will flock to the 50th state this year, spending $221 million. And there must be hotels to house them.

By contrast, five years ago there were less than half as many visitors — 243,000 — and tourist income was $109 million.

Since statehood day — Aug. 21, 1959 — the state has grown by more than 100,000 persons.

Honolulu Mayor Neal S. Blaisdell cited improvement in communications with Washington, D.C., through direct representation in Congress as a big step forward.

Has Racial Harmony

In addition to political representation, pineapples, sugar, Waikiki Beach, vital military installations, and active volcanoes, the state maintains comparative racial harmony.

With statehood came increasing thousands of tourists. Coconut trees gave way to concrete high-rise structures which now dot the shadow of famed Diamond Head.

One of Hawaii's original boosters and investors is industrialist Henry J. Kaiser who continues to see nothing but good in the 50th state's future, especially in tourism.

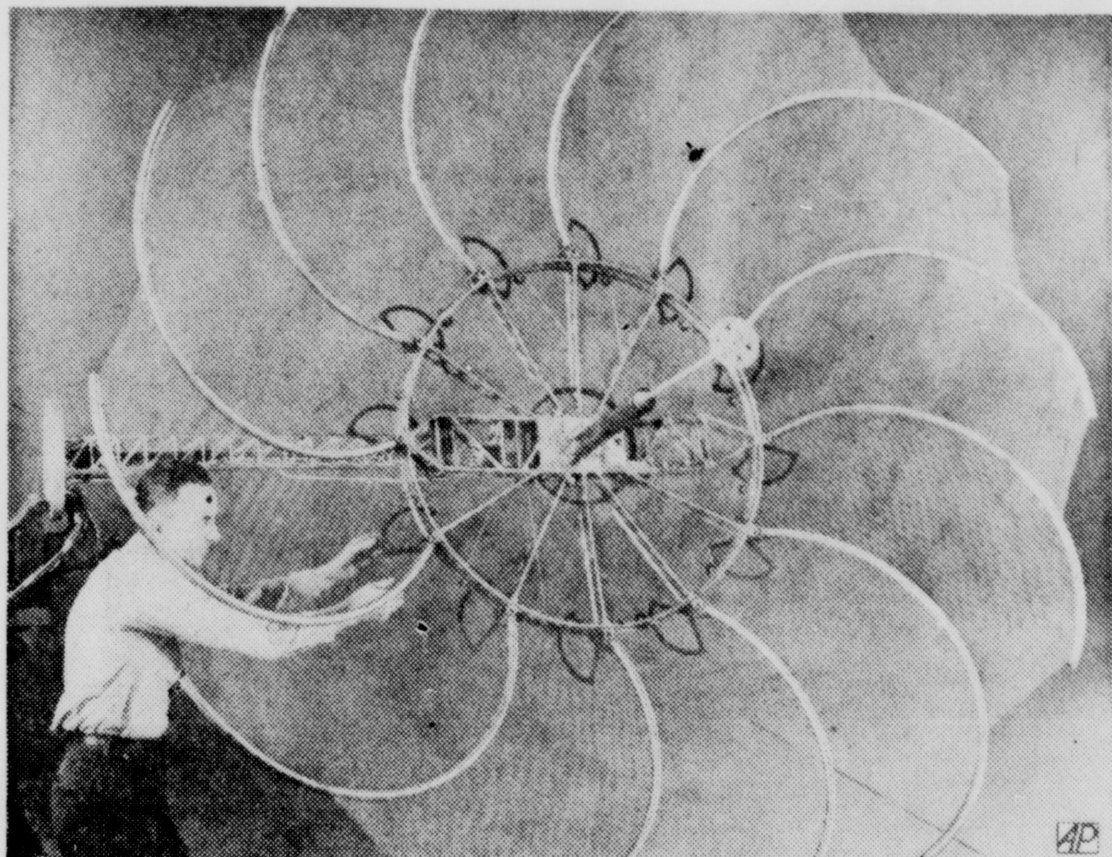

Looks to More Tourists

Kaiser forecasts an increase in tourist travel to one million visitors a year around 1970 and predicted the state's population will reach a million at that time. It now stands at approximately 730,500.

The bulk of these people live on Oahu Island where Honolulu is located. Neighboring island communities are just beginning to develop.

The state's tourist facilities have overflowed Waikiki and moved to rural Oahu and to the outer islands. There were 5,494 hotel rooms in 1958. The number now stands at more than 11,400 with more under construction.

Nevertheless, the greatest source of revenue for the islands remains federal defense expenditures which totaled about $369 million in 1963.

SPATIAL RADIATOR — Technician works on research model of an interplanetary spacecraft antenna. Made of wire mesh as fine as a human hair and paper-thin metal supports, the communications device was built by Goodyear for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Named to Head County Division Of Chest Drive

The 1965 Ulster County Community Chest chairman for the County Division is G. Herbert DeKay, it was announced today by Joseph J. Benjamin, general campaign chairman.

The County Division is composed of four sections: Marbletown, New Paltz, Rosendale and Saugerties. Last year $19,000 was raised in this division.

A graduate of Syracuse University, DeKay was formerly a member of Central Hudson's public relations staff.

DeKay is past president of the Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts, and Kingston Kiwanis. He is presently a trustee for the Y. M. C. A., Home for the Aged, and Kingston Library. He is a member of the Urban Renewal Committee, past senior elder of the Old Dutch Church and former Community Chest vice-president.

In describing DeKay's campaign post, Benjamin noted that it is imperative to maintain active communication and liaison between the Campaign Cabinet and the several communities affiliated with the Chest.

As County Division chairman, DeKay will work closely with the section managers in Marbletown, New Paltz, Rosendale, and Saugerties. It is DeKay's responsibility to assist these managers and make available to them any and all of the Chest's campaign resources, Benjamin pointed out.

DeKay is optimistic regarding the County Division's performance. "I am delighted and inspired," he notes, "by the quality of leadership that has come forward in each of these communities. Their local pride and interest in the Chest compels me to assist in any way I can."

Hidden on Walls of Mexican Church

Murals Tell About Christians
Slain in Japan 300 Years Ago

By RELMAN MORIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago, in the cold cathedral in Cuernavaca, Mexico, a little-known chapter in Christian history suddenly came to light.

Workmen were scraping paint from the cathedral walls, preparatory to renovation. As the successive layers were removed, a set of murals began to emerge. Further cleaning showed the murals cover huge expanses of wall space on both sides of the cathedral. They lay hidden for perhaps 300 years.

They depict a religious tragedy, not in Mexico, but on the other side of the world — in Japan. It is a scene of execution, of Japanese and Europeans dying by crucifixion or beheading. The contours of the ground in one mural strongly suggest that the site was a hill that came to be known as "Martyr's Mount," near Nagasaki.

This is the story: Toward the end of the 16th century, the rulers of Japan, being anxious for trade with the West, granted concessions to the Spaniards and Portuguese. At first, they permitted the Europeans to build churches and convert the Japanese.

The friars were notably successful. In a very few years, they converted thousands of Japanese. Some estimates put the figure at 300,000.

Fund Aids Homeless

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Twenty-six families left homeless by a tenement house fire Aug. 13 are housed temporarily in the Rochambeau School and are being aided by various agencies including a Fire Disaster Fund, suggested by the White Plains Reporter-Dispatch.

The fund, headed by a local businessman had raised $4,784 up to Thursday. Sponsors hope the total will be $6,000 to $10,000.

At this point, the shoguns — rulers — began to be uneasy — not on religious but political grounds. They apparently came to suspect that the Japanese Christians were a potential "fifth column" in the event of trouble with Spain.

Thereupon, edicts were issued, ordering the friars to leave Japan on pain of death, and designed to extirpate the foreign faith, root and branch, from Japanese soil.

The edicts met almost total defiance. The friars continued to preach openly, and the people continued to worship in the churches.

Then the terror began. At first, it took the form of executions. A more terrible sequence followed — torture. The effort now was to force the Christians to recant. Very few did so. Even Japanese children, when offered pardon, replied that they preferred to die with their parents. An eyewitness, a Frenchman who was not involved, said "the poor Christians endured the tortments with a constancy to a miracle."

A Japanese account says 200,000 persons were "punished." Christianity, to all appearances, vanished from Japan. But there is a sequel, a testimonial to the human spirit.

In the 19th century, when Westerners returned to Japan, they found that Christianity had not died out there. A few Japanese had been practicing it in secret for more than two centuries.

It is not known definitely how the murals came to be painted in Cuernavaca. Church records have vanished.

However, a regular and direct connection existed between Mexico and the Far East. Each year, a huge galleon, a treasure ship, sailed from Acapulco for Manila. She carried silver bullion on the west-bound voyage and products of the Orient on the return.

Thus, the knowledge of the tragic events in Japan could have reached Mexico in a relatively short time. Many friars who went to the Far East came from Mexico and it appears that some were victims of the persecutions.

Optimistic About Future

Hawaii Leaders Excited
By Growth in Five Years

By HARRY MOSKOS
HONOLULU (AP) — Coconut trees have given way to concrete but the ocean remains blue and skies sunny as Hawaii celebrates its fifth year as a state.

The youngest state in the Union maintains its leisurely atmosphere, but now as a modern American metropolis in the subtropical mid Pacific.

Hawaii's business and government leaders are excited by the rapid growth of the past five years and speak optimistically about the promise of the future. But others grumble in despair at the high cost of such progress. Some complain that the 50th state is changing in ways that would destroy it.

US. Expert Joins
Investigation of Gas in Oneonta

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — A Federal Bureau of Mines expert has joined the hunt for the source of an underground gasoline leak that has forced the closing of an Episcopal church in Oneonta.

E. J. Podgorski arrived here from Albany Thursday night and conferred with Mayor Albert S. Nader and other top city officials.

Although numerous test holes had been bored in the neighborhood of St. James Episcopal Church, filled with fumes from the gasoline, no solid clues to the source of the gasoline were developed.

There are five gasoline stations within a five-block radius of the church.

The church held services last Sunday for the first time since July 5. The fumes had been eased by emergency measures, but they increased again and the church was closed.

The Rev. Richard Frye, rector of the church, said a recent test indicated the building was filled with "explosive fumes."

for human beings, interrupted by petrochemical complexes, bowling alley monstrosities, city dumps and rocket launching pads."

Polynesia Can't Exist

But officials say such critics may be seeing only the romantic side — the fabled Polynesia that cannot exist in this day and age.

They cite a Hawaii Visitors Bureau prediction that 500,000 tourists will flock to the 50th state this year, spending $221 million. And there must be hotels to house them.

By contrast, five years ago there were less than half as many visitors — 243,000 — and tourist income was $109 million. Since statehood day — Aug. 21, 1959 — the state has grown by more than 100,000 persons.

Honolulu Mayor Neal S. Blaisdel cited improvement in communications with Washington, D.C., through direct representation in Congress as a big step forward.

Has Racial Harmony

In addition to political representation, pineapples, sugar, Waikiki Beach, vital military installations, and active volcanoes, the state maintains comparative racial harmony.

With statehood came increasing thousands of tourists. Coconut trees gave way to concrete high-rise structures which now dot the shadow of famed Diamond Head.

One of Hawaii's original boosters and investors is industrialist Henry J. Kaiser who continues to see nothing but good in the 50th state's future, especially in tourism.

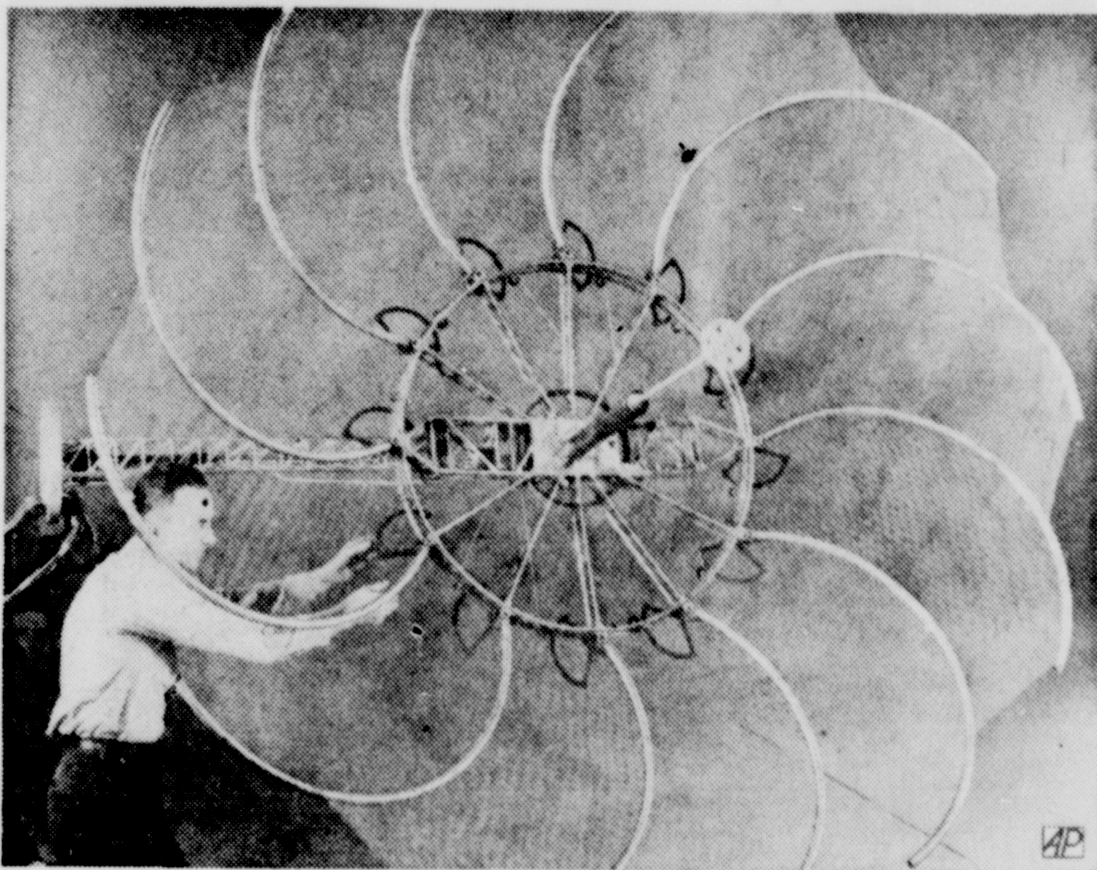

Looks to More Tourists

Kaiser forecasts an increase in tourist travel to one million visitors a year around 1970 and predicted the state's population will reach a million at that time. It now stands at approximately 730,500.

The bulk of these people live on Oahu Island where Honolulu is located. Neighboring island communities are just beginning to develop.

The state's tourist facilities have overflowed Waikiki and moved to rural Oahu and to the outer islands. There were 5,494 hotel rooms in 1958. The number now stands at more than 11,400 with more under construction.

Nevertheless, the greatest source of revenue for the islands remains federal defense expenditures which totaled about $369 million in 1963.

SPATIAL RADIATOR — Technician works on research model of an interplanetary spacecraft antenna. Made of wire mesh as fine as a human hair and paper-thin metal supports, the communications device was built by Goodyear for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Named to Head County Division Of Chest Drive

The 1965 Ulster County Community Chest chairman for the County Division is G. Herbert DeKay. It was announced today by Joseph J. Benjamin, general campaign chairman.

The County Division is composed of four sections: Marbletown, New Paltz, Rosendale and Saugerties. Last year $19,000 was raised in this division.

A graduate of Syracuse University, DeKay was formerly a member of Central Hudson's public relations staff.

DeKay is past president of the Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts, and Kingston Kiwanis. He is presently a trustee for the Y. M. C. A., Home for the Aged, and Kingston Library. He is a member of the Urban Renewal Committee, past senior elder of the Old Dutch Church and former Community Chest vice-president.

In describing DeKay's campaign post, Benjamin noted that it is imperative to maintain active communication and liaison between the Campaign Cabinet and the several communities affiliated with the Chest.

As County Division chairman, DeKay will work closely with the section managers in Marbletown, New Paltz, Rosendale, and Saugerties. It is DeKay's responsibility to assist these managers and make available to them any and all of the Chest's campaign resources, Benjamin pointed out.

DeKay is optimistic regarding the County Division's performance. "I am delighted and inspired," he notes, "by the quality of leadership that has come forward in each of these communities. Their local pride and interest in the Chest compels me to assist in any way I can."

Hidden on Walls of Mexican Church

Murals Tell About Christians
Slain in Japan 300 Years Ago

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago, in the cold cathedral in Cuernavaca, Mexico, a little-known chapter in Christian history suddenly came to light.

Workers were scraping paint from the cathedral walls, preparatory to renovation. As the successive layers were removed, a set of murals began to emerge.

Fashion Experts Note Current Trend Toward Masculinity

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Paradoxically, while Frenchmen glory in la difference, French couturiers are diminishing it by decreeing trousers and more trousers for women.

During a fashion year in which near-nudity also is the vogue, sociologists, fashion historians, and designers too, are pondering the significance of this seemingly masculine trend in the Paris collections just introduced.

A year ago, the dean of American couturiers, Norman Norell, created tuxedo suits "for travel" only. Their success prompted him to add more to his collection this season, even though he admits he personally is not fond of long trousers on women.

So many women bought and wore Norell's pants that other American designers took to tailoring them too, for travel, or anything.

Pants the Fad

Then in Paris these last few weeks Andre Courreges, Pierre Cardin, Jacques Esterel, Coco Chanel, Balenciaga — almost every couturier but a stubborn young Yves St. Laurent — brought forth tight-legged, or bell-bottomed, hip-slung or high-waisted, creased or creaseless, long pants in every fabric from flannel to lace.

In London, fashion historian James Laver told a trade publication:

"It is typical of a patriarchy when the sexes get very close together in clothes that women being the breadwinners can now afford to choose husbands who attract them as men, not as providers. Men, therefore, could begin to dress for physical attraction."

Sex Played Down

That seeming feminine extreme in physical attraction, the bared bosoms trend, had prompted Laver to speak up. The trousers trend does not contradict this vogue, he said in effect, because women are subconsciously playing down their sex by demystifying it.

"Females can't find a dominant male anymore," is the reason why women are wearing the long pants, in the opinion of Michigan State University sociologist David Gottlieb.

The ogre destroying masculinity, he contends, is modern society's worshipfulness of the organization man with his clean fingernails and white collar.

"He smells nice, never sweats, only perspires, and surrounds his young sons to a world of females."

REMINISCE AUNT OF PROMISED GIFT

Q: At the time my husband and I were married, an aunt on my husband's side promised us a wedding gift of sterling silver tableware. As of this time—six months later—we have not received it. Should I write or call to remind her about the silver or must I just sit and wait and do nothing? We can't wait much longer, however, because we do need it for entertaining.

A: It is not a problem of money with her because she is well situated. A: If it was anyone else but a close relative, you couldn't possibly do anything about it. But since she is your husband's aunt, he can certainly speak freely to her and explain your need of the silver and ask whether she still intends to give it to you, adding that he will understand if she has changed her mind but that he would like to know before going out and buying it himself.

Seating in a Restaurant
Q: When dining with a woman friend in a restaurant that has booths, should I sit facing her or do I take my place beside her?

A: If the table is narrow, you sit facing her; if it is wide, you sit beside her.

A House Wedding
Q: My daughter is going to be married at home. Is it necessary to have chairs for the guests to sit on during the ceremony, or do they stand?

A: Unless your house is very large and chairs can be arranged as in a church, guests are seldom seated at a house wedding, although a few chairs are always left standing nearby for elderly members of the family or others who cannot stand.

Mrs. Clyde Wonderly Sr. Has Recorded Memories of Youth at York Preparatory

Some people say that life is quite a simple matter after all, that it is one happy cycle of similar experiences that everyone shares with everyone else sooner or later.

Mrs. Clyde E. Wonderly Sr., 49 Emerson Street seems to have made this same observation in her own way. A recent visit from her granddaughter and a few college friends started her reminiscing about her own college days.

Following are the notes she has taken down in her memory: "My granddaughter, her roommate and another fellow student had come the night before and had to return to college the next day. Who was to take them back? Grandmother, of course! So, with two other friends, the six of us started off.

"It was a beautiful day and spirits were high. Youth held the forte for some time, but finally succumbed to grandmother's tale of her school days.

"How very different was the picture of the social activities of the preparatory school which I attended, compared to activities of schools of today. Most of the students, especially the boys, were preparing for Princeton—many of whom were to take up the ministry. While the girls followed Gaucher, Wilson, Wells and other institutions.

"The Phi Sigma fraternity of the college held a soiree twice a year. Each member chose his special partner and looked eagerly for the day to arrive. The young man called for his choice and together they walked. I repeat, walked to the college. Fortunately I lived only two blocks away from the college. Fortunately too, for my escort, for there was no thought of expense for the equipage. Perhaps that was the reason I was chosen. At any rate, I enjoyed every minute.

"On arriving at the college, we were ushered into the auditorium and when all were gathered together, the president greeted us. A debate followed but what was all about, I was not so interested in. After much hand clapping and congratulatory speeches, we followed the instructors up to Cassett Library, quite a large room. Next to it was the music room, where three musicians played on the piano, cello and violin.

"The girls were given cards on which were names of the boys with whom they were to promenade. When the music started, they came to walk with you through the different rooms, one following the other. When the music stopped, you sat down and waited for the next walking escort, or if you choose, you could sit out that promenade. Exciting! The faculty looked on and anything that was said or done never escaped them. Dancing! Horrors! This was a Presbyterian school and that was taboo.

"Refreshments were served at 10 p. m., after which we walked home. How different from the experiences of young people today. Even the college has changed. In May I went back to the college, but it had been torn down. Beautiful new buildings, built on the old country club grounds, covering acres, formed a new picture. Memories flooded in but I couldn't relive the moments I spent there because it had grown so large, which is most gratifying. But the memories still remain."

Mrs. Wonderly graduated from York Collegiate Preparatory School in York, Pa. It is now a junior college. Her granddaughter is a student at Orange County Community College.

Fashion Experts Note Current Trend Toward Masculinity

AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Paradoxically, while Frenchmen glory in la difference, French couturiers are diminishing it by decreeing trousers and more trousers for women.

During a fashion year in which near-nudity also is the vogue, sociologists, fashion historians, and designers too, are pondering the significance of this seemingly masculine trend in the Paris collections just introduced.

A year ago, the dean of American couturiers, Norman Norell, created tweed trouser suits "for travel" only. Their success prompted him to add more to his collection this season, even though he admits he personally is not fond of long trousers on women.

So many women bought and wore Norell's pants that other American designers took to tailoring them too, for travel, or anything.

Pants the Fad

Then in Paris these last few weeks Andre Courreges, Pierre Cardin, Jacques Esterel, Coco Chanel, Balenciaga — almost every couturier but a stubborn young Yves St. Laurent — brought forth tight-legged, or bell-bottomed, hip-slung or high-waisted, creased or creaseless, long pants in every fabric from flannel to lace.

In London, fashion historian James Laver told a trade publication:

"It is typical of a matriarchy when the sexes get very close together in clothes that women being the breadwinners can now afford to choose husbands who attract them as men, not as providers. Men, therefore, could begin to dress for physical attraction."

Sex Played Down

That seeming feminine extreme in physical attraction, the bared bosoms trend, had prompted Laver to speak up. The trousers trend does not contradict this vogue, he said in effect, because women are subconsciously playing down their sex by demystifying it.

"Females can't find a dominant male anymore," is the reason why women are wearing the long pants, in the opinion of Michigan State University sociologist David Gottlieb.

The age-debating masculinity, he contends, is modern society's worshipfulness of the organization man with his clean fingernails and white collar.

"He smells nice, never sweats, only perspires, and surrenders his young sons to a world of females."

REMINISCEMENT OF PROMISED GIFT

Q: At the time my husband and I were married, an aunt on my husband's side promised us a wedding gift of sterling silver tableware. As of this time — six months later — we have not received it. Should I write or call to remind her about the silver or must I just sit and wait and do nothing? We can't wait much longer, however, because we do need it for entertaining.

A: It's not a problem of money with her because she is well situated. It's not a problem of money with her because she is well situated. It's not a problem of money with her because she is well situated.

A: If it was anyone else but a close relative, you couldn't possibly do anything about it. But since she is your husband's aunt, he can certainly speak freely to her and explain your need of the silver and ask whether she still intends to give it to you, adding that he will understand if she has changed her mind but that he would like to know before going out and buying it himself.

But since she is your husband's aunt, he can certainly speak freely to her and explain your need of the silver and ask whether she still intends to give it to you, adding that he will understand if she has changed her mind but that he would like to know before going out and buying it himself.

Mrs. Clyde Wonderly Sr. Has Recorded Memories of Youth at York Preparatory

Some people say that life is quite a simple matter after all, that it is one happy cycle of similar experiences that everyone shares with everyone else sooner or later.

Mrs. Clyde E. Wonderly Sr., 49 Emerson Street seems to have made this same observation in her own way. A recent visit from her granddaughter and a few college friends started her reminiscing about her own college days.

Following are the notes she has taken down in her memory: "My granddaughter, her roommate and another fellow student had come the night before and had to return to college the next day. Who was to take them back? Grandmother, of course! So, with two other friends, the six of us started off."

"It was a beautiful day and spirits were high. Youth held the forte for some time, but finally succumbed to grandmother's tale of her school days."

"How very different was the picture of the social activities of the preparatory school which I attended, compared to activities of schools of today. Most of the students, especially the boys, were preparing for Princeton — many of whom were to take up the ministry. While the girls followed Gaucher, Wilson, Wells and other institutions."

"The Phi Sigma fraternity of the college held a soiree twice a year. Each member chose his special partner and looked eagerly for the day to arrive. The young man called for his choice and together they walked. I repeat, walked to the college. Fortunately I lived only two blocks away from the college. Fortunately too, for my escort, for there was no thought of expense for the equipage. Perhaps that was the reason I was chosen. At any rate, I enjoyed every minute."

"On arriving at the college, we were ushered into the auditorium and when all were gathered together, the president greeted us. A debate followed but what is all about, I was not so interested in. After much hand clapping and congratulatory speeches, we followed the instructors up to Cassett Library, quite a large room. Next to it was the music room, where three musicians played on the piano, cello and violin."

"The girls were given cards on which were names of the boys with whom they were to promenade. When the music started, they came to walk with you through the different rooms, one following the other. When the music stopped, you sat down and waited for the next walking escort, or if you choose, you could sit out that promenade. Exciting! The faculty looked on and anything that was said or done never escaped them. Dancing! Horrors! This was a Presbyterian school and that was taboo."

"Refreshments were served at 10 p. m. after which we walked home. How different from the experiences of young people today. Even the college has changed. In May I went back to the college, but it had been torn down. Beautiful new buildings, built on the old country club grounds, covering acres, formed a new picture. Memories flooded in but I couldn't relive the moments I spent there because it had grown so large, which is most gratifying. But the memories still remain."

Mrs. Wonderly graduated from York Collegiate Preparatory School in York, Pa. It is now a junior college. Her granddaughter is a student at Orange County Community College.

DON'T GROPE IN THE DARK to capture the sounds of life as they should be heard. A significant new development now makes it possible for all sounds, all human voices to be heard as Nature intended. This new way of hearing does not use the ear! Instead the "vibrations" of sound are brought directly to your sensory system by bone conduction. The result is a revelation. It means the attainment of best hearing for so many thousands of people who have previously experienced problems at home or at work. Learn how important this new way of hearing can be to you.

Sisterhood Group Honors Mrs. Seigal With Luncheon Here

Mrs. David Seigal was guest of honor at a luncheon sponsored by Sisterhood Ahavath Israel on August 17 proceeds of which were donated to the Combined Campaign Fund of the National Women's League of the United Synagogues of America.

Mrs. Seymour Semilof served as toastmaster, and introduced the guests. The blessing over the bread was performed by Mrs. Harry Schechtman. After the catered luncheon, Mrs. Alfred Horowitz, of Sisterhood Ahavath Israel, a member of the Board of Directors of the New York Branch of the National Women's League paid a tribute to Mrs. Seigal.

It was noted the guest of honor has been a dedicated Sisterhood worker for more than 30 years, and it was she who innovated the annual custom of a paid-up membership dinner. It was during Mrs. Seigal's term of presidency that the local unit became affiliated with the National Women's League. She also served as a past chairman of Torah Fund and is still active on the Executive Board of Sisterhood. In addition, she is a member of Zephaniah Chapter of B'nai Brith Women, Kingston Chapter of Hadassah, and the Eastern Stars.

The Sisterhood presented her with a beautiful gold charm, symbolizing the fact that a donation in her name from the group had made her a beneficiary of the Combined Campaign. A life membership in the group was also awarded to her. Greetings from local organizations and friends were read by Mrs. Horowitz.

Mrs. Carl Lipton introduced Mrs. Henry Slutsky, area vice president of the New York State Branch, National Women's League, and Area Coordinator of the Combined Campaign. Mrs. Slutsky emphasized that although the Jews have been a wandering people subject to adverse conditions, they have not suffered loss of dignity of faith because they have had the Torah as their portable homeland. However, to insure a future for the religion, teachers of the faith, rabbis, and cantors must be trained. This is the function of the Jewish Theological Seminary, supported in part by the Combined Campaign. In order to encourage women students, the Nathilde Schechter Residence Hall for Women must be constructed. Therefore, contributions from individuals and sisterhood groups are needed so that the Jewish heritage can be perpetuated.

The committee for the affair included the Mmes: Carl Lipton, chairman, Alfred Horowitz, Marvin Millens, George Muller, Seymour Semilof, Fred Strauss, Irving Wilpan. Mrs. Marvin Millens and Mrs. Seymour Werba-lowsky executed the table decorations. Menus and programs were designed and printed by Mrs. Carl Lipton, Julius Lipton, and Mrs. Marvin Millens. Members of the United Synagogue Youth served as waiters. The blessing after the meal was given by Mrs. Jacob Rubenstein.

Second Onteora Field Student Has Arrived

Elizabeth Margaret Steele of Grays, County of Essex, England, Onteora Central's second American Field Society student has arrived at the home of her host family, the Malcolm Rose's of Bearsville.

Miss Steele made the crossing with 900 other AFS students on the charter ship "Seven Seas." She was met at customs by Mr. Rose, Carolyn and David Rose and then driven to Bearsville.

On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Rose held a family barbecue supper. Sunday night they attended the performance of "Absence of A Cello" at the Woodstock Playhouse and on Monday the Babe Ruth League baseball game at Saugerties. David Rose participated as a member of the Swim-O-Links team of Woodstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose have expressed the hope that many of the high school students will call on Miss Steele and Carolyn between now and the time that school opens.

Change in Plans
Miss Wendy Hyatt, Onteora's first semi-finalist under the Americans Abroad program will leave soon for Swarthmore College instead of going abroad on her AFS scholarship, due to the limited number of host families and schools overseas and in the United States.

The Onteora Chapter of AFS says that acceptance of this disappointment to Miss Hyatt and to the chapter requires patience and understanding. The AFS program, it notes, has particular needs which must be met in order for it to be satisfying to all the participants. This year there were 2,822 students from 59 countries in the United States and 350 American students in 32 countries overseas. Sener Ozer of Turkey, Onteora's first foreign student, ended his stay in June. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kahil of Mt. Tremper, his host family, drove him to Saratoga Springs, where he joined his "Bus Trip Group." This unit toured Pennsylvania, Ohio, and the Virginias. In Washington, D. C., all students from the various bus trips met and were addressed by President Johnson and Attorney General Kennedy.

On July 23, Ozer, with 85 other Turkish students departed by plane for Istanbul. From a letter to the Kahil's, it was learned that more than 1,000 countrymen and friends met the returning students at the airport.

Lady Was Winner After a Long Wait

"I never win anything," she said as she walked up to the booth. "You never know," responded the lady in the booth." With these remarks, Miss Mary Bell took the winning chance for the G. E. Muisphonc table radio awarded by the Ulster County Conservative Party at the county fair.

Miss Bell is retired from many years of private nursing in and around Kingston. She is living with her niece, Mrs. Robert J. Ackert at 10 Granite Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric M. Rickard presented the radio to Miss Bell at her home Thursday evening. Mr. Rickard is the Conservative Party candidate for member of the State Assembly. Mrs. Rickard serves as corresponding secretary for the party.

Ulster Park Grange

On Thursday, Aug. 27 a bus trip to the New York Fair will be sponsored by the Ulster Park Grange No. 969.

Tickets are available from Mrs. Jack Travis, Mrs. George White, and Miss Linda Winslow.

Sisterhood Group Honors Mrs. Seigal With Luncheon Here

Mrs. David Seigal was guest of honor at a luncheon sponsored by Sisterhood Ahavath Israel on August 17 proceeds of which were donated to the Combined Campaign Fund of the National Women's League of the United Synagogues of America.

Mrs. Seymour Semilof served as toastmaster, and introduced the guests. The blessing over the bread was performed by Mrs. Harry Schechtman. After the catered luncheon, Mrs. Alfred Horowitz, of Sisterhood Ahavath Israel, a member of the Board of Directors of the National Women's League paid a tribute to Mrs. Seigal.

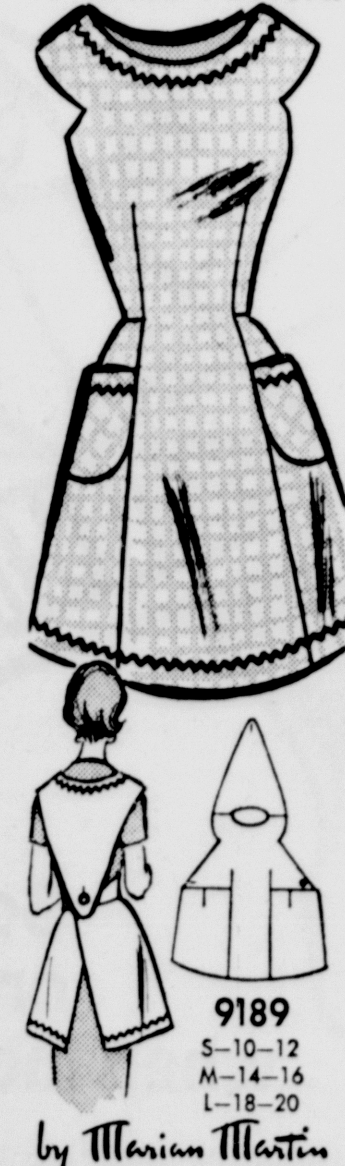

It was noted the guest of honor has been a dedicated Sisterhood worker for more than 30 years, and it was she who innovated the annual custom of a paid-up membership dinner. It was during Mrs. Seigal's term of presidency that the local unit became affiliated with the National Women's League. She also served as a past chairman of Torah Fund and is still active on the Executive Board of Sisterhood. In addition, she is a member of Zephaniah Chapter of Bnai Brith Women, Kingston Chapter of Hadassah, and the Eastern Stars.

The Sisterhood presented her with a beautiful gold charm, symbolizing the fact that a donation in her name from the group had made her a benefactor of the Combined Campaign. A life membership in the group was also awarded to her. Greetings from local organizations and friends were read by Mrs. Horowitz.

Mrs. Carl Lipton introduced Mrs. Henry Slutsky, area vice president of the New York State Branch, National Women's League, and Area Coordinator of the Combined Campaign. Mrs. Slutsky emphasized that although the Jews have been a wandering people subject to adverse conditions, they have not suffered loss of dignity of faith because they have had the Torah as their portable homeland. However, to insure a future for the religion, teachers of the faith, rabbis, and cantors must be trained. This is the function of the Jewish Theological Seminary, supported in part by the Combined Campaign. In order to encourage women students, the Nathalie Schechter Residence Hall for Women must be constructed. Therefore, contributions from individuals and sisterhood groups are needed so that the Jewish heritage can be perpetuated.

The committee for the affair included the Mmes: Carl Lipton, chairman, Alfred Horowitz, Marvin Millens, George Muller, Seymour Semilof, Fred Strauss, Irving Wilpan, Mrs. Marvin Millens and Mrs. Seymour Werbalowsky executed the table decorations. Menus and programs were designed and printed by Mrs. Carl Lipton, Julius Lipton, and Mrs. Marvin Millens. Members of the United Synagogue Youth served as waiters. The blessing after the meal was given by Mrs. Jacob Rubenstein.

Double Trouble for Orioles; Callison, Thomas Spark Phils

Slugging Star May Be Through For the Season

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

"A bitter blow," moaned Hank Bauer.

"My thoughts of a pennant are high now," beamed Al Lopez.

"We'll be right up near the top again if . . ." said Yogi Berra hopefully.

Those were the reactions Thursday of the three American League managers following a pair of games that left Chicago in first place, Baltimore without Boog Powell and New York struggling for air.

Lopez' White Sox replaced the Orioles in first place, blanking New York 5-0 for their fifth straight victory and the Yankees' fourth consecutive defeat.

The Orioles' 4-3 loss to Boston dropped Bauer's boys one-half game behind the White Sox.

Chicago's vault to the top made Lopez' 56th birthday a happy one, but for Bauer and Powell there was no celebration.

The slugging left fielder broke his left wrist trying for a catch against the wall in the second inning and may be lost to the Orioles for as long as a month.

"We might as well forget him," Bauer grumbled.

Forgetting 31 homers and 80 runs batted in undoubtedly will be difficult. Getting a replacement will be even tougher.

Chico's Red Hot

The White Sox, on the other hand, are playing possibly their best ball of the season. After dropping their first 10 games with the Yankees, the Sox turned around and grabbed six of the last eight, including a sweep of this week's four-game series.

Then there's Berra, who is counting on the eight games the top two teams must play with each other. The first of four games in Chicago is on for tonight.

The tension, meanwhile, might be getting to the Yankees. Berra and infielder Phil Linz became engaged in a heated row over Linz' harmonica playing in the team bus following the latest defeat. Yankee Coach Frank Crosetti called the incident the worst he's seen in his 33 years with the team.

Back on the field, Los Angeles edged Detroit 4-3 and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 7-4 in other AL games.

The White Sox shelved Whitey Ford from the mound en route to their victory. The Yankee hurler, making his first start since Aug. 8, lasted only into the fourth inning as Chicago rapped him for nine hits.

Their two runs in the second inning, the second coming on pitcher John Buzhardt's squeeze bunt, marked their first earned runs off Ford in 46 innings.

Bob Tillman's two-run homer highlighted a four-run second inning that carried the Red Sox past the Orioles. Frank Malzone's single preceded Tillman's blast off Dave Vineyard. Pitcher Dave Morehead then doubled on the play on which Powell was hurt.

Radatz Saves Win

Dick Radatz came on in the eighth inning and preserved the victory for Morehead.

Detroit's Dennis McLain held the Angels to two hits through six innings, but his throwing error on a grounder hit by Felix Torres helped a four-run Los Angeles rally in the seventh. Bob Rodgers scored the tying run on the wild toss. Lou Clinton followed with a run-scoring single off reliever Julio Navarro.

Rocky Colavito and Doc Edwards' lashed two-run singles in the eighth inning, lifting the Athletics over the Indians. Cleveland had taken a 3-2 lead in the seventh on Woodie Held's run-scoring double.

Key Homers Help Leaders Sweep 2 From Pirates

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

The hand-me-down and the All-Star hero sat quietly in the Philadelphia dressing room.

"It's always a thrill to hit a home run," said Frank Thomas. "It's about time I did something good for a change," said Johnny Callison.

What Thomas and Callison did was supply all the runs as the Phillies swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 2-0 and 3-2 Thursday night and shot into a commanding 7½-game lead in the National League pennant race.

Thomas, acquired from the New York Mets recently, took care of the opener with a two-run homer in the ninth inning that won it for Art Mahaffey, who posted his first complete game since May 27 by checking the Pirates on two hits.

Callison, who won the All-Star game for the National League, took over in the second game, tying it 1-1 with his 21st homer in the sixth inning, then lashing a long sacrifice fly in the eighth that drove in two runs.

Trailing 3-1, the Pirates got a run back in the ninth on a single by Smokey Burgess and Bill Mazeroski's double, but Callison came through again. He grabbed Jerry Lynch's fly ball and cut down Mazeroski, trying to advance to third. That ended the threat.

Cincinnati Second

The twin triumphs, coupled with Cincinnati's 10-7 victory over slipping San Francisco, added 1½ games to the Phillies' lead. The Reds, meanwhile, pulled into a tie for second with the Giants by winning their fourth straight while San Francisco lost its fifth in a row.

In the only other NL game scheduled, Denis Menke drove in three runs and Hank Aaron stroked four hits as Milwaukee belted the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-2.

Mahaffey, bringing his record to 11-6, won his duel with Bob Friend, 10-13, in the opener when Thomas homered after a single by Clay Dalrymple. Mahaffey did not allow a hit until Mazeroski singled with one out in the seventh. Roberto Clemente's ninth inning single was the only other hit.

In the eighth, Bob Bailey put the Pirates ahead 1-0 with a third inning homer off Rick Wise. Callison then tagged Don Schwall with the loss. Wise, a rookie, needed Ed Roebuck's help in the ninth inning but won his fifth game in six decisions.

Six-Run Rally

The Giants led the Reds 4-3 until Deron Johnson slammed a bases-empty homer in the seventh inning. The Reds then broke it open in the eighth inning with a six-run spurt, scoring the go-ahead run when Ron Herbel issued a bases-loaded walk to Tommy Harper.

Vada Pinson followed with a two-run single, Frank Robinson singled across another run, Pinson scored on Johnson's ground-der and Robinson came across on Don Pavletich's sacrifice fly.

Besides Johnson, Robinson and Leo Cardenas homered for the Reds while Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda and Del Crandall connected for the Giants. Mays' homer was his 38th.

The Braves collected 16 hits while Bob Sadowsky held the Dodgers to seven hits. Milwaukee managed only three singles in the first four innings, then tagged Joe Moeller and Bob Miller for five extra base hits and five runs in the fifth and sixth.

Ron Fairly's homer accounted for both Dodger runs.

Phillies Take Lead in Stride

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies won a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday night, increasing their National League lead to 7½ games. But batting heroes Johnny Callison and Frank Thomas shrugged off their roles as just another day's work.

And Art Mahaffey, who pitched a two-hitter to win the opener 2-0, said he knew right from the start he had good stuff.

"It's about time I did something good for a change," said Callison, who drove in all three Phillie runs as they won the second game, 3-2.

Thomas' two-run homer in the ninth inning of the opener gave Mahaffey his 11th victory.

"It's always a thrill to hit a home run," said Thomas.

And in keeping with the low-key atmosphere in the Phillies' dressing room, Manager Gene Mauch declined to praise either Callison, Thomas or Mahaffey, saying simply "I'm glad I've got two dozen great ball players."

The twin victory boosted the Phillies National League lead to 7½ games over Cincinnati and San Francisco. The Reds climbed to a second place tie Thursday defeating the Giants 10-7.

Dodgers Take Title in Hurley Little League

Dodgers whipped the Giants, 3 to 1, Thursday to sweep the Hurley Little League championship in two straight games.

Eric Assion limited the Giants to four hits and pitched shut-out ball until the last of the sixth. He struck out nine and walked three.

Ricky Vogt had two singles to lead the seven-hit attack on Dan Waters, who struck out eight and walked two. Craig Frost's double for the Dodgers was the only extra baser in the game. Cliff Kline with two singles accounted for half of the Giant hits off Assion.

Dodgers went ahead 2-0 in the fourth inning and picked up their third run in the next frame to lead 3-0 going into the bottom of the sixth.

Crosetti Says

Linz-Berra Hassle Is Worst Yank Family Brawl in Years

BOSTON (AP) — CBS may have a spot for Phil Linz and his harmonica on the Amateur Hour, but the New York Yankees infielder obviously has been auditioning for the wrong people in the corporate structure.

Manager Yogi Berra took exception to Linz' harmonica playing in the back of the team bus Thursday and wound up in a hassle described by coach Frank Crosetti as the worst incident he has seen in his 33 years with the perennial American League champions.

The Yankees had taken the bus from Comiskey Park to O'Hare Airport in Chicago, en route to Boston for a series with the Red Sox. The defending AL champions had just lost their fourth straight game to the White Sox, 5-0, and dropped 4½ games behind the first-place Chicagoans.

Linz, sitting in the rear of the bus next to first baseman Joe Mauer, pulled out his harmonica and started playing it.

In the front of the bus, Berra snapped his head around and shouted:

"Put that thing in your pocket."

"Toot. Toot."

Berra rushed toward the back of the bus and yelled at Linz. "I said to put it away. You'd think you just won four straight."

Linz, startled, flipped the harmonica into the air toward the manager as if to give it to him. Berra, however, angrily swatted it with his right hand, and it

Phillies Take Lead in Stride

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies won a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday night, increasing their National League lead to 7½ games. But batting heroes Johnny Callison and Frank Thomas shrugged off their roles as just another day's work.

And Art Mahaffey, who pitched a two-hitter to win the opener 2-0, said he knew right from the start he had good stuff.

"It's always a thrill to hit a home run," said Thomas.

And in keeping with the low-key atmosphere in the Phillies' dressing room, Manager Gene Mauch declined to praise either Callison, Thomas or Mahaffey, saying simply "I'm glad I've got two dozen great ball players."

Slugging Star May Be Through For the Season

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

"A bitter blow," moaned Hank Bauer.

"My thoughts of a pennant are high now," beamed Al Lopez.

"We'll be right up near the top again if . . .," said Yogi Berra hopefully.

Those were the reactions Thursday of the three American League managers following a pair of games that left Chicago in first place, Baltimore without Boog Powell and New York struggling for air.

Lopez' White Sox replaced the Orioles in first place, blanking New York 5-0 for their fifth straight victory and the Yankees' fourth consecutive defeat.

The Orioles' 4-3 loss to Boston dropped Bauer's boys one-half game behind the White Sox.

Chicago's vault to the top made Lopez' 56th birthday a happy one, but for Bauer and Powell there was no celebration.

The slugging left fielder broke his left wrist trying for a catch against the wall in the second inning and may be lost to the Orioles for as long as a month.

"We might as well forget him," Bauer grumbled.

Forgetting 31 homers and 80 runs batted in undoubtedly will be difficult. Getting a replacement will be even tougher.

Chisox Red Hot
The White Sox, on the other hand, are playing possibly their best ball of the season. After dropping their first 10 games with the Yankees, the Sox turned around and grabbed six of the last eight, including a sweep of this week's four-game series.

Then there's Berra, who is counting on the eight games the top two teams must play with each other. The first of four games in Chicago is on for tonight.

The tension, meanwhile, might be getting to the Yankees. Berra and infielder Phil Linz became engaged in a heated row over Linz' harmonica playing in the team bus following the latest defeat.

Yankee Coach Frank Crosetti called the incident the worst he's seen in his 33 years with the team.

Back on the field, Los Angeles edged Detroit 4-3 and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 7-4 in the other AL games.

The White Sox shelled Whitey Ford from the mound en route to their victory. The Yankee hurler, making his first start since Aug. 8, lasted only into the fourth inning as Chicago rapped him for nine hits.

Their two runs in the second inning, the second coming on pitcher John Buzhardt's squeeze bunt, marked their first earned runs off Ford in 46 innings.

Bob Tillman's two-run homer highlighted a four-run second inning that carried the Red Sox past the Orioles. Frank Malzone's single preceded Tillman's blast off Dave Vineyard. Pitcher Dave Morehead then doubled on the play on which Powell was hurt.

Radatz Saves Win
Dick Radatz came on in the eighth inning and preserved the victory for Morehead.

Detroit's Dennis McLain held the Angels to two hits through six innings, but his throwing error on a grounder hit by Felix Torres helped a four-run Los Angeles rally in the seventh.

Bob Rodgers scored the tying run on the wild toss. Lou Clinton followed with a run-scoring single off reliever Julio Navarro.

Rocky Colavito and Doc Edwards' lashed two-run singles in the eighth inning, lifting the Athletics over the Indians. Cleveland had taken a 3-2 lead in the seventh on Woodie Held's run-scoring double.

Phillies Take Lead in Stride
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies won a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday night, increasing their National League lead to 7 1/2 games. But batting heroes Johnny Callison and Frank Thomas shrugged off their roles as just another day's work.

And Art Mahaffey, who pitched a two-hitter to win the opener 2-0, said he knew right from the start he had good stuff. "It's about time I did something good for a change," said Callison, who drove in all three Phillies runs as they won the second game, 3-2.

Thomas' two-run homer in the ninth inning of the opener gave Mahaffey his 11th victory. "It's always a thrill to hit a home run," said Thomas.

And in keeping with the low-key atmosphere in the Phillies' dressing room, Manager Gene Mauch declined to praise either Callison, Thomas or Mahaffey, saying simply "I'm glad I've got two dozen great ball players."

The twin victory boosted the Phillies National League lead to 7 1/2 games over Cincinnati and San Francisco. The Reds climbed to a second place tie Thursday defeating the Giants 10-7.

Women's Jr. Major
An organizational meeting of the Women's Junior Major will be held Monday, Aug. 24, at 8 p. m. at the Bowlerama. Any bowler who wishes to bowl and cannot attend is asked to contact either Mary Olsen, president, or Vangie Enright, secretary.

Dodgers Take Title in Hurley Little League

Dodgers whipped the Giants, 3 to 1, Thursday to sweep the Hurley Little League championship in two straight games.

Eric Assion limited the Giants to four hits and pitched shutout ball until the last of the sixth. He struck out nine and walked three.

Ricky Vogt had two singles to lead the seven-hit attack on Dan Waters, who struck out eight and walked two. Craig Frost's double for the Dodgers was the only extra baser in the game.

Cliff Kline with two singles accounted for half of the Giant hits off Assion.

Dodgers went ahead 2-0 in the fourth inning and picked up their third run in the next frame to lead 3-0 going into the bottom of the sixth.

Linz-Berra Hassle Is Worst Yank Family Brawl in Years

BOSTON (AP) — CBS may have a spot for Phil Linz and his harmonica on the Amateur Hour, but the New York Yankees' infielder obviously has been auditioning for the wrong people in the corporate structure.

Manager Yogi Berra took exception to Linz' harmonica playing in the back of the team bus Thursday and wound up in a hassle described by coach Frank Crosetti as the worst incident he has seen in his 33 years with the perennial American League champions.

The Yankees had taken the bus from Comiskey Park to O'Hare Airport in Chicago, en route to Boston for a series with the Red Sox. The defending AL champions had just lost their fourth straight game to the White Sox, 5-0, and dropped 4 1/2 games behind the first-place Chicagoans.

Linz, sitting in the rear of the bus next to first baseman Joe Pepitone, pulled out his harmonica and started playing it.

In the front of the bus, Berra snapped his head around and shouted: "Put that thing in your pocket."

Silence followed — for a second. Then from the back of the bus came:

"Toot, toot."

Berra rushed toward the back of the bus and yelled at Linz. "I said to put it away. You'd think you just won four straight."

Linz, startled, flipped the harmonica into the air toward the manager as if to give it to him. Berra, however, angrily swatted it with his right hand, and it bounced off Pepitone's right knee.

"Why are you getting on me," Linz asked Berra. "I give a hundred per cent out on the field. I try to win. I should be allowed to do what I want off the field."

"Play it in your room," Berra snapped.

Berra also was overheard telling Linz, "I'll take care of you."

Berra then returned to his seat, and again there was silence.

It was soon punctuated by Crosetti, who started yelling at Linz while Linz retorted by telling the veteran coach to stay out of the argument.

Order finally was restored and the bus proceeded to the airport.

J., 6-0, 6-1.

Nobody says you have to buy tiger paws. You can buy something else. But if you want tiger paws, you ought to get tiger paws. Not something else. Tiger paws are sold only at U.S. Royal tiger paw stores. No place else. We're that kind of store.

So if you buy a tire at another kind of store, you'll be buying an ordinary tire. Not tiger paws. Here's how different tiger paws are from ordinary tires (besides having a red circle): They were tested at 120 miles an hour for a hundred miles without a stop. Without a failure. They went 19,000 miles at a sustained speed of 90 miles an hour for 16 hours a day. Without a failure. (And at that speed tread wears out more than twice as fast as it does at fifty.) Sure-footed tiger paws handle beautifully at high speeds. And corner as nimbly as tigers. Now, do you want tiger paws? Head our way. We're an official U. S. Royal tiger paw store.

Clinton Lowers
Record at Spa

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.
(AP)—Bupers, who hadn't started since the Dwyer Stakes over a month ago, headed a small field of 3-year-olds in the $10,000
Diamond Jim purse at Saratoga
today.

Bupers finished a poor fifth in the Dwyer, won by Quadrangle.
Nevertheless, the colt shared top weight of 123 pounds in the field of five today, along with Roman Columa who also had not started in over a month.

Others in the field for the seven-furlong allowance race were Trader, under 120 pounds, and Parullah and Breadspare, both
in light at 116.

The $12,500-added Promise
Hurdles Thursday proved more than a promise for Sanford Stud
Farm's Clinton, as the maiden
3-year-old set a course record
of 2:50 1-5 for the 1 5-8 miles.

Ridden by apprentice Leo
O'Brien, Clinton finished 2 1/2
lengths in front of Henry R. C.
Elser's Genies Pride. The odds
on choice, Mrs. Stephen C.
Clark Jr.'s Wanderlure, was six
lengths farther back.

Clinton, third choice in the betting, paid $16.40, $6.70 and $3.30.

Credit Portal Runoff With Improved Trout Conditions

Fishing in the Esopus con tinues to be good despite the fierce summer drought, the Aug ust News Bulletin of the Phoe
nicia Fish and Game Associa tion, Inc., reports.

The bulletin attributes the good fishing conditions to the "portal" which is emptying ap proximately two million gallons of water a day into the main stream at Allaben. It also recog nizes the cooperation of John
Aalto, Chief Engineer of the Catskill Water Supply System
of the New York City Water
Department.

The flow through the portal has been reduced slightly in the hope that the remaining supply in the upper (Gilboa) reservoir will be enough to last through the Labor Day weekend despite the lack of a sorely needed rain storm.

Prospects for ample water and good fishing through the month of August remain good, the bul letin says.

Center of Controversy
The bulletin also points out that "the portal," as the dis charge end of the Shandaken tunnel is popularly known, is the subject of much debate among area fishermen. With mid-sum mer drought conditions rapidly
drying up other streams in the Catskills, it is a real boon at the present time. And there is no doubt that this extra water flow is responsible for maintaining the high population of stream
bred rainbow trout in the Esopus.

Earlier in the spring, how ever, the added volume of water comes in for criticism on the part of some fishermen who do not find high waters to their particular liking. Because the how and why of the regulation
as the flow of water through the portal is a much misunder
stood subject, Aalto has offered to speak at the Sept. 14 meet ing of the Phoenicia club. He will discuss all of the problems involved in the operation of this part of the Catskill watershed system. The meeting is sched uled at 8 p. m. in the clubhouse.

Set Turkey Shoot
The release of seventy 10-
week old pheasants in the Phoenicia area is noted in the bulletin. The State Conservation
Department released the birds
at two sections — on the flats below Mt. Tremper and near Big Indian.

The club's annual turkey
shoot is scheduled Columbus
Day weekend, Sunday, Oct. 11.
A gala affair is planned start ing at 10 a. m. with large and small bore rifle, shotgun, archery
and other events throughout the day. As usual an outstanding selection of prizes as well as turkeys will be awarded to lucky contestants.

The catch of tagged trout by club members has been fair to date. Assuming that only one third of the fishermen who har vest these 12-inch and over browns turn in or report the tags, the count to date indicates that there are still several hundred of the spotted beauties
waiting to be caught.

Palmer Leading
On 68 Opener

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Arnold
Palmer, the burly, rugged Masters champion, likes his golf courses burly and rugged.

That's one of the reasons for Palmer's consistent success at the Firestone Country Club where he grabbed the first round lead Thursday in the $50-000 American Golf Classic with a two under par 34-34 — 68.

"I like playing the course," said Palmer. "It's one of my fa vorites. It's narrow, long and offers a pretty good test of golf."

Palmer's 68, which included three birdies and one bogey over the 7,165-yard layout, was fashioned with a new putter.
And Firestone played longer than usual because of heavy rains which lasted through mid afternoon.

Someone told Palmer — who finished fourth in the first Clas sic three years ago, won it in 1962 and was second last year — that his new putter resembled an old heel.

Palmer held a one-stroke lead over British Open champion
Tony Lema, who had a 34-35 — 69 and was the only other player to better par.

Matching par were Ed Grif fiths, Tom Weiskopf, Harold Kneece, Bill Collins and Mason
Rudolph. U. S. Open champion
Ken Venturi remained a strong contender with a one-over-par 71 but several other top stars, including PGA champion Bobby Nichols who had a 75, were down the list.

Jack Nicklaus, the leading money winner who could go over the $100,000 mark for the year by finishing first or second in the Classic, shot a 37-36—73 without nailing a birdie. Gary Player, returning to the tourna ment trail, had a 40-35 — 75.

Clinton Lowers
Record at Spa

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.
(AP)—Bupers, who hadn't started since the Dwyer Stakes over a month ago, headed a small
field of 3-year-olds in the $10,000
Diamond Jim purse at Saratoga
today.

Bupers finished a poor fifth in the Dwyer, won by Quadrangle.
Nevertheless, the colt shared top
weight of 123 pounds in the field
of five today, along with Roman Column, who also had not started in over a month.

Others in the field for the seven-furlong allowance race were Trader, under 120 pounds, and Parullah and Breadspare, both
in light at 116.

The $12,500-added Promise
Hurdles Thursday proved more than a promise for Sanford Stud
Farm's Clinton, as the maiden
3-year-old set a course record
of 2:50 1-5 for the 1 5-8 miles.

Ridden by apprentice Leo
O'Brien, Clinton finished 2 1/2
lengths in front of Henry R. C.
Elser's Genies Pride. The odds
on choice, Mrs. Stephen C.
Clark Jr.'s Wanderlure, was six
lengths farther back.

Clinton, third choice in the
betting, paid $16.40, $6.70 and $3.30.

Credit Portal Runoff With Improved Trout Conditions

Fishing in the Esopus continues to be good despite the fierce summer drought, the August News Bulletin of the Phoenicia Fish and Game Association, Inc., reports.

The bulletin attributes the
good fishing conditions to the
"portal" which is emptying approximately two million gallons of water a day into the main stream at Allaben. It also recognizes the cooperation of John
Aalto, Chief Engineer of the
Catskill Water Supply System
Department.

The flow through the portal
has been reduced slightly in the hope that the remaining supply in the upper (Gibboa) reservoir will be enough to last through the Labor Day weekend despite the lack of a sorely needed rainstorm.

Prospects for ample water and good fishing through the month of August remain good, the bulletin says.

Center of Controversy
The bulletin also points out that "the portal", as the discharge end of the Shandaken
tunnel is popularly known, is the subject of much debate among
area fishermen. With mid-summer drought conditions rapidly
drying up other streams in the Catskills, it is a real boon at the present time. And there is no doubt that this extra water flow is responsible for maintaining the high population of stream-
bred rainbow trout in the Esopus.

Earlier in the spring, however, the added volume of water

comes in for criticism on the part of some fishermen who do not find high waters to their particular liking. Because the
how and why of the regulation
as the flow of water through the portal is a much misunderstood subject, Aalto has offered to speak at the Sept. 14 meeting of the Phoenicia club. He will discuss all of the problems involved in the operation of this part of the Catskill watershed
system. The meeting is scheduled at 8 p. m. in the clubhouse.

Set Turkey Shoot
The release of seventy 10-
week old pheasants in the
Phoenicia area is noted in the bulletin. The State Conservation
Department released the birds
at two sections — on the flats
below Mt. Tremper and near Big Indian.

The club's annual turkey
shoot is scheduled Columbus
Day weekend, Sunday, Oct. 11.
A gala affair is planned starting at 10 a. m., with large and small bore rifle, shotgun, archery
and other events throughout the day. As usual an outstanding selection of prizes as well as turkeys will be awarded to lucky contestants.

The catch of tagged trout by club members has been fair to date. Assuming that only one third of the fishermen who harvest these 12-inch and over browns turn in or report the tags, the count to date indicates that there are still several hundred of the spotted beauties
waiting to be caught.

Provenzano's Net 66
Leads in B Division

John Provenzano, who has enjoyed a rather successful season on the golf links, fired a net 66 to lead the Class B division of

Pennant Fever Sweeps Chicago As Birds Arrive

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, after counter-attacking the New York Yankees successfully, open Operation Orioles in Comiskey Park tonight in an atmosphere of pennant fever.

Baltimore comes in for a four-game series trailing the Sox in the American league race by three percentage points, .615 to .612.

The Sox reached the top by one-half game, blanking the Yankees 5-0 Thursday to sweep their four-game set while Boston edged the Orioles 4-3.

Chicago reclaimed the league lead for the first time since June 18 with a five-game winning streak.

Both Baltimore and the White Sox have finished their season business with the Yankees, who have dropped 4½ games off the pace and have a four-game losing string to match their longest of the year.

The Sox lost their first 10 games with the Yankees. Their four-game sweep—the first such over New York since Al Lopez has been piloting Chicago—left them on the short side of a 12-6 count for the season.

"I've been in baseball 40 years and no series has given me more satisfaction than the one we've just taken from the Yankees," said Lopez.

Meanwhile, as the Yankees invade Boston, Yogi Berra isn't waving a white flag.

"We're all through with the Orioles and White Sox," he said. "But they still have to play each other eight times in the next 10 days. If we can win while they knock each other off, we'll be right up near the top again."

Rome Pony Leaguers

Drop From Tourney
WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Rome, N.Y., eliminated Hagerstown, Md., from the eastern division Pony League baseball tournament Thursday with a 3-1 victory.

Rain forced postponement of the Greensboro, N.C., and Allegheny-Kiski Valley, Pa., contest in the first inning. Greensboro was leading, 6-0.

Relief pitcher Herman Stevens drove in two runs with a single in the eighth inning for the Rome victory in the other contest.

The Greensboro-Allegheny game will be resumed Friday at the point where it was postponed.

Braves Defeat Sox, 4-3 in RL

The Braves were out-hit, 4-3, but Tom Hartman blanked the Red Sox, 3-0, in the Roundout Valley Little League.

The winners scored their three runs off Dick Hermance in the second inning. Hartman fanned seven and Hermance five.

Don Tegeler and Jim White of the Braves hit doubles. Bill Wilkins collected two of the four Red Sox singles off Hartman. Al Aluetta had the other. Bill Parete's single accounted for the third hit off Hermance.

Democratic convention in Atlantic City.

What hasn't happened has been answers to questions like these which have taken up a lot of newspaper space:

Will Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy run for the Senate from New York where he is not a resident? Who's President Johnson's choice for his vice presidential running-mate? Will Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater ever debate?

These uncertainties shouldn't last long since Johnson will have to give an answer on debating, Kennedy will have to announce his decision soon and Johnson's running-mate will be named before the convention ends.

But while Johnson and Goldwater have butted heads in these past five weeks neither man has quickened pulses with the brilliance of his political utterances.

Rough Delivery
In this campaign there may be some brilliant political maneuvering but hardly brilliant statements since neither Johnson nor Goldwater is polished in phrase or delivery.

There's a good explanation for the small excitement so far. Both men have had to use these weeks preparing for the campaign which starts rolling in September.

Beside their organizational problems, Goldwater had to spend time trying to restore unity to the Republican party while Johnson had a lot to keep busy with in Congress. His record there will be a big campaign item.

Shows What's Coming
Nevertheless, it's the way the two men have butted heads which foreshadows if not a sparkling campaign, at least a rough-house one.

Goldwater and his team have left little doubt they will go after Johnson with bare fists although up to now they have done it in a scattered and limited rather than in a persistent and concentrated way.

Their sharpest attacks have actually been reactions to something Johnson did, like his handling of the North Vietnamese attacks on U.S. naval vessels and the release of information on his personal fortune.

At this moment the great unknown of the campaign is how far Johnson will go in slugging it out personally with Goldwater. He may try to stay aloof while letting those around him go after Goldwater with their long knives.

It looks like a good bet, judging from what's happened already, that Johnson will do his share of personally trying to scalp the Arizona.

Really Irritated
One good example: His reaction when Goldwater seemed to imply Johnson had given his naval commanders a blank check to use nuclear weapons against North Viet Nam if they thought that appropriate.

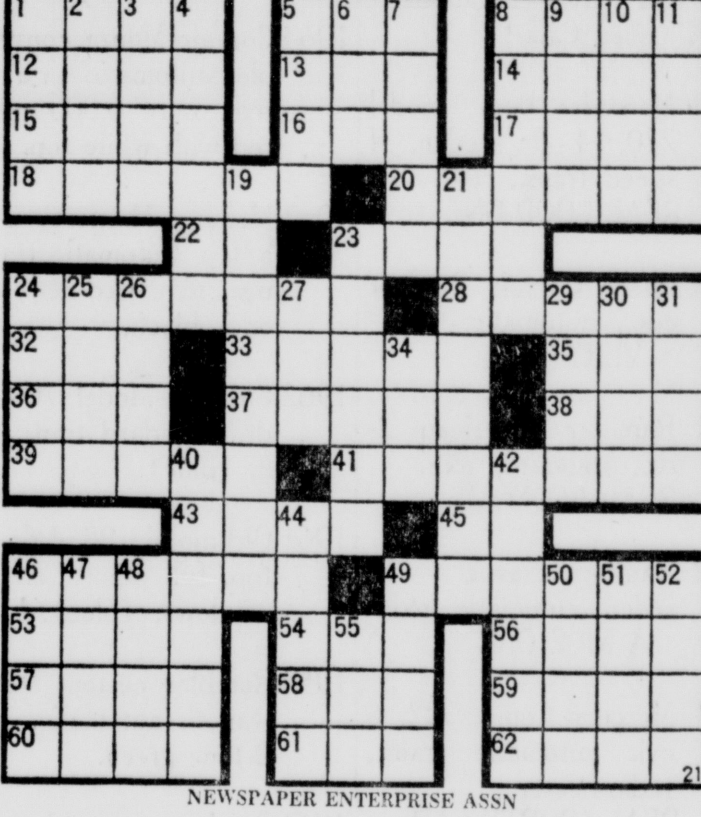

Johnson called this "unjustified and irresponsible." Still, this was a reaction to an attack on him by Goldwater who so far has been far more aggressive in commenting on his rival.

The fact that Johnson could be so irritated by Goldwater that he'd reply with a personal attack — the "irresponsible" charge — is a good indication it can happen again and probably will.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP) — "Pretty Boy," a 30-pound Persian cat who loved to ride in automobiles, was startled by a train whistle—and he took off through an open window.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sarnacki of nearby Scotia finally gave up advertising and hunting for their 5-year-old pet.

This month, almost exactly a year later, Sarnacki walked into his yard, and found "Pretty Boy" drowsing like a kitten who never left home.

Named to Board
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Henry K. Ostrow of New York City has been appointed by Gov. Rockefeller to the board of visitors of the State Training School for Girls at Hudson.

Rockefeller designated him Thursday to succeed Paul Peralta-Ramos, also of New York City, who resigned last month. The post pays no salary.

Ostrow formerly was secretary to the board of visitors of the State Training School for Boys at Warwick.

Charles Wallace of Salisbury, N. C., is an active-type bridge player. He likes to bid when it is his turn and is not afraid to make all sorts of aggressive decisions.

He doesn't always succeed, but he operates on the theory that if you sit around doing nothing you won't get anywhere.

Charley's pass of North's diamond opening was correct. He had good defense and bad distribution. Then, after West stuck in the club overall, Charley was able to give a jump raise.

West had fired all his guns when he made one bid and, although West wanted to sacrifice at five clubs, he decided to leave matters to his partner.

After Charley doubled four spades, West thought about running, but finally passed and opened the king of clubs.

Charley didn't like the looks of the dummy because, in case his partner held any honors in hearts, they would be worthless. It also looked as if diamonds should be attacked immediately, so Charley overtook the king of clubs and led the king of diamonds. West dropped the five to show two diamonds and Charley cashed the ace.

Then he led a third diamond. He was sure West had six clubs for his overall, so the only hope was an uppercut situation in trumps. The uppercut play worked. Actually, South ruffed with the ace but it didn't make any difference. Once that third diamond was led, South was doomed to defeat.

Lucille Ball Is Starting Radio Show Labor Day

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lucille Ball, who needs another job like a centipede needs another leg, is on the threshold of a new career — radio. Starting on Labor Day, Lucy will preside over a 10-minute week-day program called "Let's Talk with Lucy" on CBS.

Already the star of a popular CBS television series and president of the enormous, multimillion-dollar Desilu productions — which owns the biggest studio complex in Hollywood — Lucy is working on the new project with the enthusiasm of a cub reporter on a first big assignment.

She carries a tape recorder wherever she goes, just in case she runs into someone or something interesting. The other day she grabbed an interview with busy Bob Hope as she trotted beside him on a walk between his dressing room and a set.

She has already taped interviews, some two- and three-part sessions with famous friends and colleagues including Bing Crosby, Jack Benny, Danny Kaye, Dean Martin and his wife, and others.

The public, which has long known and loved Lucy Ricardo and Lucy Carmichael, will be meeting a third — the real one, Lucille Ball Morton.

"I've always liked radio," the red-haired comedienne said. "But I'd sort of forgotten what a really important thing it is to so many people. Last spring when I was in Virginia a lot of people asked me why I never was on radio. I said that I was on television—but they said it wasn't the same thing."

The subject of a daily radio show was broached after Garry Moore (who had a daily radio show on CBS for years) decided on a broadcasting sabbatical.

Gary Morton, Lucy's husband, will join her often on the program, and is, in addition, producing the series.

The three major television networks, which have invested millions of dollars and deployed tons of equipment and transported their top broadcasters, now are busily attempting to drum up suspense and excitement over the forthcoming Democratic National Convention starting Monday in Atlantic City.

Political leaders will be popping up for interviews all over the channels during the week-end and the New Jersey resort city's boardwalk will be getting first degree burns from camera exposure.

Conventions, like beauty contests, have aficionados among television viewers even when there is not a great deal of built-in suspense about the ultimate outcome.

Mid-U.S. Gets Heavy Showers, Snow in Wyoming

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms and heavy showers rattled over the nation's midsection today, bringing much-needed rains and some destructive winds. And winter came to the northern Wyoming mountains.

More than an inch of rain drenched eastern Iowa, one of many areas where moisture has been critically short. At Waterloo, 2 1/2 inches of rain came down in less than an hour. An inch and a half fell in less than an hour at Moline, Ill.

Seventy-mile-an-hour winds swept Prairie Village, Kan., a Kansas City suburb, damaging a few trees. Gusts went to nearly 50 miles an hour came with the heavy showers in Iowa.

A foot of snow fell Thursday in the Big Horn Mountains east of Lovell, Wyo., hampering motorists on U.S. 14-alternate and U.S. 212. The snowfall reportedly closed for a while Bearfoot Pass near the northeast entrance to Yellowstone National Park.

Elsewhere today, there were a few showers over Florida and Texas and light rains fell along the North Atlantic Coast. The Far West, however, was under clear skies.

Council Sticking By Hoffa During His Two Appeals

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Teamsters Union executive council says it will stick by President James R. Hoffa while he appeals two convictions on federal charges.

A statement issued by the council Thursday after a closed session said Hoffa was innocent until he has exhausted his legal rights and that the union would do nothing to deprive him of these rights.

Jimmy Gratified

The statement did not say what would happen if the convictions are upheld.

Hoffa said the statement was "very gratifying to me. It is positive, living proof of no dissension in this union."

Harold Gibbons, who resigned last December as a top personal aide to Hoffa but remained as the union vice president, read the statement to newsmen. He said he saw no significance in the omission of any declaration of confidence.

The meeting was the first for the council since Hoffa was convicted of attempted jury tampering in Chattanooga, Tenn., and of conspiracy to defraud the Teamsters pension fund in Chicago. He has been sentenced to a total of 13 years.

Hoffa said the statement had nothing to do with the controversy about who is going to pay his legal expenses. He said he expected that issue to be settled in court. More than 500 rank-and-file members have filed suit seeking recovery of union monies spent for Hoffa's defense.

The executive council statement said, "We recognize that the welfare of this union must of necessity take precedence over the personal interests of any single individual in it."

Larger Obligations

"However, there are larger obligations upon us, and one of these is to extend to each individual his fullest constitutional rights as a citizen and a member."

"We therefore subscribe to the firm belief that general president James R. Hoffa should be afforded his full rights to appeal his convictions in the lower courts, and we insist that he not be deemed guilty until he has exhausted these appeal rights, which are granted to all citizens."

"Accordingly, we wish to take this means to assure our membership that the general public that no action will be taken to deprive him of such rights in any way."

'Must Drive Out Devils'

Will Ask Fast, Prayers To Combat Teen Drugs

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — A Catholic priest says he will call upon his parishioners to fast and pray for deliverance from the narcotics scourge infesting a large number of teenagers in a fashionable Yonkers neighborhood.

Msgr. Edward M. Betowski says that on Sunday he will announce a special mass for Tuesday and urge a fast from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. without even a drink of water.

'Black Severe Fast'

"It will be what they call a black (severe) fast," he told a newsman Thursday. "I'm not placing anybody under obligation. I'm suggesting that we do the decent thing according to our faith."

Msgr. Betowski touched on one big question: How did the well-to-do parents let it happen?

"We had the ringleader right

in here, and his parents rushed in to defend him," the Monsignor said in the parish house of the Church of Christ the King, the Church of Christ the King.

Tapping his cane, he added: "More parks, more playgrounds, more dances, none of them has worked. What did our Lord say, do you remember? There are some devils that are not driven out except by prayer and by fasting."

Daniel F. McMahon, public safety commissioner of this city of 200,000, has explained that he issued his announcement on the narcotics problem Wednesday to make clergymen, parents and civic leaders aware of the situation. He says he thinks the police have stemmed the traffic in dope, "but we're left with a wake of addicts."

Streets, Parks Hangouts

Police say that at least 40 boys and girls in the northwest Yonkers neighborhood have experimented with heroin, some have become addicts and many others have smoked marijuana.

Other youngsters from outside the neighborhood—up to 100 addicts and 900 occasional users—have made the quiet streets and elegantly landscaped parks a hangout for using dope, police report.

Central School To Offer Course In Humanities

NEW PALTZ.—For the past two weeks a humanities team, composed of teachers from three subject areas, music, literature and art, have been working on a curriculum outline for the humanities, to be offered to New Palts Central seniors this fall.

The course will involve student participation in class discussion, research, thought questions, individual projects, field trips and guest lectures from all areas of the humanities.

Actual preparation for the course began last year with a number of staff meetings, visits to schools in the area that were offering a course in the humanities and consultations, by letter and personal contacts with experienced people in the field.

During the summer, Mrs. Carl Reed attended, for several days, as guest of Dr. Charles R. Keller, director of the John Hays Fellows Program, the Summer Institutes at Williams and Bennington Colleges. The current feeling that exploration in the Humanities belongs in High School and echoed in all the seminars, workshops and lectures held at the two institutes which Mrs. Reed visited.

Mrs. R. C. Cunningham participated, for two weeks, in the Institute on Man and Science at Rensselaerville.

Mrs. George Bond arranged for a stimulating and informative field trip taken by the humanities team one morning during the time that they were working on the curriculum outline. Through arrangements with Dr. George W. Bond, director of the Irish seminars, the Humanities Team attended as guests, a morning workshop for Irish teachers. They heard Walter Able, distinguished actor and member of the Board of the American National Theatre Academy speak on the history of the theatre. Mr. Able was introduced by Dr. Charles Scott, director of the College Theatre, State University College, at New Paltz. Later in the morning the team heard about Art in Colonial America from Dr. Peter Bohan, gallery director at SUCNP. A comparative series of slides accompanied and illustrated the lecture.

Following the trend of humanities in education, the New Palts Central Team feels that the course on which they are working will add much to the personal enrichment of those who have indicated a deepening awareness of man's creative impulse.

Registration Set, School to Open Locally Sept. 9th

Frederick C. Dippel, supervising principal of the New Palts School has urged the parents of any children who plan to attend school this year and have not as yet registered to come in to the Central School office during the week of Aug. 24 to register.

By registering in advance of the opening of school it will avoid much confusion on opening day both for the school personnel and the student.

Dr. Dippel announced that school will open Wednesday, Sept. 9. There will be a half day of school on that day. Full day sessions will begin Thursday.

On about Aug. 28, letters will be mailed to all pupils who have been registered. These letters will contain all the pertinent information regarding the opening of school including the grade, room and teacher to whom the pupil has been assigned and the bus he will ride. Anyone who does not receive this letter within reasonable time after this date should contact the main office of the Central School.

The enrollment at present is 1151 which is 30 above the peak enrollment last year and does not include migrant children or many children new to the community who have not as yet registered.

About 404 million gallons of marine fuel were used by boat owners and vacationers in 1960.

Fight Stubborn Blaze

Ulster Hose Co. 5 volunteers fought a stubborn woods fire near the town dump Thursday night for about two hours. The company members worked for about an hour earlier in the day and on Wednesday were called out twice for woods fires in the same area. Mutual Aid Headquarters also reported brush fires were extinguished by volunteers in the Tabasco, Clintondale and Malden-West Camp districts on Thursday.

BRENTWOOD, N.Y. (AP) —

A 32-year-old man paralyzed from the waist down burned to death last night when he was trapped in his flaming car after a head-on collision.

Police identified him as Anthony O. Orlando, of Ronkonkoma.

Anthony Porquato, 35, of Jericho, the other driver, was in fair condition today at a hospital. His car did not catch fire.

Fight Stubborn Blaze

Ulster Hose Co. 5 volunteers fought a stubborn woods fire near the town dump Thursday night for about two hours.

The company members worked for about an hour earlier in the day and on Wednesday were called out twice for woods fires in the same area. Mutual Aid Headquarters also reported brush fires were extinguished by volunteers in the Tabasco, Clintondale and Malden-West Camp districts on Thursday.

Be Sure To Remove The Key!

In a recent survey of stolen cars:

59 were stolen by juveniles

62 of the 85 cars had the key in the ignition

We urge you to remove the key when parking your car. Temptation is a powerful stimulant and anything you can do to discourage wrongdoing may save a youngster from committing a crime.

'Must Drive Out Devils'

Will Ask Fast, Prayers To Combat Teen Drugs

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — A Catholic priest says he will call upon his parishioners to fast and pray for deliverance from the narcotics scourge infesting a large number of teen-agers in a fashionable Yonkers neighborhood.

Msgr. Edward M. Betowski says that on Sunday he will announce a special mass for Tuesday and urge a fast from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. without even a drink of water.

'Black Severe Fast'

"It will be what they call a black (severe) fast," he told a newsman Thursday. "I'm not placing anybody under obligation. I'm suggesting that we do the decent thing according to our faith."

Msgr. Betowski touched on one big question: How did the well-to-do parents let it happen?

"We had the ringleader right

in here, and his parents rushed in to defend him," the Monsignor said in the parish house of the Church of Christ the King.

Tapping his cane, he added: "More parks, more playgrounds, more dances, none of them has worked. What did our Lord say, do you remember? There are some devils that are not driven out except by prayer and by fasting."

Daniel F. McMahon, public safety commissioner of this city of 200,000, has explained that he issued his announcement on the narcotics problem Wednesday to make clergymen, parents and civic leaders aware of the situation. He says he thinks the police have stemmed the traffic in drugs, "but we're left with a wake of addicts."

Streets, Parks Hangouts

Police say that at least 40 boys and girls in the northwest Yonkers neighborhood have experimented with heroin, some have become addicts and many others have smoked marijuana.

Other youngsters from outside the neighborhood—up to 100 addicts and 900 occasional users—have made the quiet streets and elegantly landscaped parks a hangout for using dope, police report.
